Georgia Weekly Editors, Governor and His Staff And Fire Chiefs at Fair

FINE MIDWAY OFFERED AMUSEMENT SEEKERS

Automobile Races Are Better Than Ever, Two Records Falling on Friday Afternoon.

BY PAUL WARWICK.

Governor Hardwick and his staff divided honors three ways with the Georgia Press association and the visiting fire chiefs at the Southeastern fair Friday, all these three honored elements receiving lavish entertainment and attention at the hands of the fair association, the city of Atlanta and the populace which thronged the grounds at Lakewood to pay their tribute and see the sights.

Today is the day that the traveling salesmen and the manufacturers take possession of the fair grounds—proverbial lock, traditional stock and historical barrel. Many of the dealers have declared whole or half holidays so that their employees may observe the things which will happen at Lakewood on their own good day. Traveling salesmen have been coming in from their experiences in pitcher-and-bowl hotels for weeks, have left the haunts where they are known as drummers and will add to the general gaiety at Lakewood with their presence.

In the morning the governor addressed the press association in laudatory manner and was replied to in kind by William G. Sutlive, of Savannah, the president of that organization of Georgia editors. The governor and his staff were met at the capitol in the morning and escorted to the fair by John L. Westmoreland, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Secretary J. C. Robinson, of the same body, and a committee headed by Roy LeCraw.

No detail of the exposition was overlooked by any of the three contingents. The exhibits, from clattering threshing machines and Duroc-Jersey hogs to camisoles of Irish crochet and linen and pastorals in water colors were observed and admired by the firemen, the press and the gubernatorial party.

In New Uniforms.

The staff of Governor Hardwick appeared on the midway, on the plaza and in the grandstand—resplendent in their spanking new uniforms, as snappy as a British officer on leave in old Lunnon. In fact, there is a certain British cut about these staff regimentals that really outdoes the swank of the subaltern and lends to the governor's staff a bearing and a dash which is all its own.

On the shoulders of the lieutenant colonels, such as Brack Blalock, Ed Schiller and Willard Patterson, there reposed the silver leaves of their vice-colonelcy; on the broad shoulders of Colonel W. W. Banks there were the silver spread eagles of a full colonelcy, giving him his rank and his entitlements of chief of staff.

The group created a mild furore as it wended its way about the grounds, having somewhat the elan we would expect to find at a cricket match back of Buckingham palace—if there is a vacant lot back there.

The crowds still persist in crowding every part of the reservation, and he who hurries about to discover where most of the throng asserts itself finds himself still in doubt after he has visited the four corners of the park. In the agricultural building there are farmers who know what they look upon, and clerks who wish they did. In the automobile building, the owner of two limousines feels the smooth new edges of a just-out flivver and the flivver-owner looks enviously into the velvety upholstery of a town car which would take a king's ransom for spare tires.

Painting Exhibit.

In the liberal arts building, the crowds seem to center about a fine exhibit of paintings and drawings which one corner of that building holds. Creditable works in oil and water colors vie in this structure with the mysteries of needlework—where women stand rapt in awe at the skill of others and men stand wondering what its all about and wishing they knew the various uses

MINERS IN KANSAS DEFY UNION HEAD AND BACK HOWAT

Between Four and Five Thousand Meet and Refuse to Recognize New Union Officers.

MEETING WAS PACKED, SAY LEWIS ADHERENTS

Legal Clash Over Funds Held by District Expected to Open Fight for Control.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Pittsburg, Kans., October 14.—Between 4,000 and 5,000 Kansas coal miners, meeting at Franklin today, adopted resolutions upholding the administration of President Alexander M. Howat, suspended yesterday by order of John L. Lewis, president of the International Mine Workers' union. Resolutions also were adopted declining to recognize the provisional administration created under President Lewis' order to be headed by George L. Peck, local member of the international executive board, and refusing to comply with instructions sent out today by Acting President Peck that all striking miners return to work immediately. About 12,000 miners have been on voluntary strike over the commitment to jail recently of President Howat and August Dorchy, union vice president, for violating the criminal section of the state industrial court law. Howat and Dorchy are serving six months' sentence in the Cherokee county jail at Columbus.

Supporters of the provisional regime asserted tonight that the Franklin meeting was attended only by friends of the suspended administration and that resolutions recognizing the new administration and voting to return to work would be adopted at a mass meeting of miners of the southern end of the field to be held at Scammon later.

In the resolutions adopted at Franklin, belief was expressed that to recognize the new administration would, in effect, be recognition of the industrial court. The meeting voted to permit the return to work of those miners in Missouri under the jurisdiction of district 14, it be-

SIMMONS' ILLNESS HALTS KLAN PROBE

Report of Wizard's Physician Results in Adjournment of Committee Hearing Until Monday.

Washington, October 14.—Because of the illness of William J. Simmons, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, the house rules committee hearing on resolutions calling for a congressional investigation of the order went over today until Monday.

A Washington physician, called in last night to attend the wizard at a hotel, after his collapse at the hearing yesterday, reported he was in bed, suffering from an acute attack of bronchitis, exhaustion and an affection of the throat, but that he would be in shape to undergo examination by committeemen the first of the week.

There was no indication as to whether the committee would summon other witnesses before making a report to the house. The suggestion that Edward Y. Clarke, imperial kleagleand head of the klan's propagating department, and Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, his assistant, be called to testify, has not been discussed by the committee, it wa ssaid.

DETECTIVE IS CUT BY NEGRO TRYING TO ESCAPE ARREST

Detective J. H. Doyal was cut in his back Friday evening at 7 o'clock on Decatur street by Charlie Johnson, colored, 21 years old, of 9 Piedmont avenue, when he attempted to apprehend Johnson, who was running towards town on Decatur street, being chased by a number of pawnbrokers.

Johnson broke away from Detective Doyal, after the latter had collared him, and in doing so whipped out a knife and cut the officer in the back. Doyal gave chase and at the corner of Ivy and Decatur streets, Johnson was captured by two patrolmen. Johnson was searched and several articles of jewelry were discovered.

He is being held at the station on a charge of robbery. Doyal's wound was dressed at Grady and said not to be serious.

Don Felix Deugo, Modern Crusader, Rests Behind Bars

Deported, He Returns With Liquor Runners, Only to Be Arrested Ten Times.

Decatur, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Don Felix Deugo, alias Peter Ortez, is living a life of one arrest after another in his efforts to remain in the United States.

After having been placed in jail in nine other cities, he is now resting behind the bars of the DeKalb county jail, having been caught by Decatur police Friday on charges of suspicion. Last night, he sat in his cell, looked at the soft moon beyond the bars decorating his window, was reminded of castles in Spain by the stone walls, and bemoaned his troubles—

"Life is, indeed sad," he remarked.

And Colonel Jefferson Shackleford Mills, in the role of a newspaper man, nodded his head in agreement. He even shed tears of sympathy, for the colonel is an old reporter. He had to secure an interview.

The Tale.

"You see, it was this way," continued the Spaniard. "I came to this country and was deported from Detroit. I was sent to Canada. But soon I came back with a liquor running crusade."

The colonel raised his head with interest and his mouth watered. Here was a real story—one with all the hair-raising incidents of old melodrama.

But he was disappointed.

"I didn't bring any of the liquor with me," resumed Don Deugo—or whatever it may be, "I just came with them because I had to get back to this country. You know, I love it. I think it would be one grand country if your policemen were not so affectionate toward me. In the last six months I have been arrested ten times."

As It Is in Life.

Then he told the colonel how the liquor-runners ran and what a wet country is old Canada. He knew so much about the "profession," the officials decided to hold him on charges of suspicion for federal authorities.

Unless he shows necessary papers, it was stated, he will be deported again or he may have to explain his connection with the latest crusade movement.

Nation's Leaders Attend Funeral Of Senator Knox

Governmental Wheels Stop Turning as Harding Leads Mourners for Former Co-Worker.

Washington, October 14.—Governmental affairs of the nation halted today while its leaders, headed by President Harding, attended the funeral services for the late Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, former secretary of state and attorney-general.

The services were held at 11 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church, which he attended, and were conducted by the Right Rev. Alfred Harding, bishop of Washington.

At the church were those prominent in American public life. President and Mrs. Harding, Secretary Christian and the president's military aide, Colonel Sherrell, occupied a front pew before the black silk casket, which bore a large cluster of red roses. Behind the president were Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge, Speaker Gillett and Mrs. Gillett, Mrs. Knox, the senator's children, and other relatives.

Members of the supreme court, headed by Chief Justice Taft, occupied the next pew, and behind them were members of the cabinet, including Secretaries Hughes, Mellon, Hoover and Weeks and Postmaster-General Hays.

Almost half of Mr. Knox's associates of the senate were present. The honorary pallbearers were the members of the senate foreign relations committee, headed by Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts; Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Underwood, of Alabama, democratic floor leader.

The house of representatives was represented by a large committee and by the entire Pennsylvania delegation in the house, led by Representative Butler, its dean. Democratic and republican members of the senate and house sat side by side in the small church, while large crowds waited outside.

The services were confined to the simple Episcopal ritual read by

PLAN GUARANTEES ON DISARMAMENT AFTER CONFERENCE

U. S. Preparing to Make Results of World Deliberations Effective After Agreements.

WOULD ASSURE FRANCE FROM GERMAN PERIL

Also Considering International Loan Situation and Settlement of Shantung Controversy in East.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER,
United News Staff Correspondent.

Washington, October 14.—Four new developments in American preparation for the coming arms conference throw a broader light upon the possible scope of the big international meeting.

First, agencies under and co-operating with the state department are making drafts of possible agreements which, through carefully worded penalty clauses, would assure definite fulfillment of understandings reached by the great powers on the question of the open door principle in the Far East.

Second, the same agencies are seeking to establish an international formula to which Germany would subscribe, that would at once assure French protection against possible German evasion of the Versailles treaty committments and relieve France of the necessity of maintaining her present burdensome military establishment—750,000 men under arms.

International Loans.

Third, President Harding and Secretary Mellon have agreed to a compromise suggestion made by Chairman Fordney of the house and means committee whereby a "world war loan commission" of five members would be fully empowered to handle the working out of present international loan problems, instead of having the whole power in Mellon's hands as the administration first wished.

Fourth, consideration is being given to a method of approaching the Shantung problem over which Japan and China have reached an impasse and as a result of which impasse the Japanese ambasador here has sounded out the state department on the question of its possibly acting as mediator.

The purpose in the first and second of these developments, it is explained, is to establish a sort of machinery which would not create any super-government or alliance of the powers but which would make violation of agreements en-

WOODALL TO ASK FOR SAFETY GATES

Councilman Plans Prevention of Accidents at Whitehall Street Grade Crossing—"Dangerous Point," He Says.

With the prevention of accidents at the Whitehall street grade crossing of the Central of Georgia and the Atlanta and West Point railroads as his object, Councilman Fred C. Woodall, of the third ward, will introduce in council Monday afternoon an ordinance to require of the railways the erection of automatic safety gates at this crossing.

Within the past two years a number of accidents of serious consequence have happened where the tracks of the two lines cut across the street, the latest occuring ten days ago when a crash took place between a locomotive of the A. & W. P. and an automobile driving in a funeral procession. Seven occupants of the machine were injured.

"This is a particularly dangerous point," Mr. Woodall stated, "and the railroads ought to gladly build a barrier against the injury of anybody else, whether the blame is the railroad's or the person hit."

The councilman stated that the railroad lines of the north and east protect nearly all their prominent crossings with safety gates. Upon the approach of a train an automatic device rings a warning bell and at the same time closes the gates and bars the crossing until the release lock is thrown as the train passes.

Councilman Woodall said that he will also introduce at the meeting Monday a resolution calling on the police department to enforce the ordinance limiting the period trains are permitted to block the Pryor street crossing at the Union station. He stated that he has observed trains stand across the street for as long as twelve minutes at a time, when they are allowed by law less than five minutes.

This is adding to the traffic congestion, according to the councilman, and he said that many persons who would ordinarily prefer to avoid the Peachtree and Whitehall jams by driving on Pryor, do not do so because they have learned that they are liable to be held at a standstill indefinitely at the railroad crossing.

Bullet Fusillade Features Exciting Chase After Car

Two County Policemen Will Have Opportunity to Explain to Marietta Judge.

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF.

"Discretion is the better part of valor," remarked the eminent Sir John Falstaff.

"Tain't no disgrace to run when you is scared, warbled Lew Dockstader.

With these precedents more or less firmly fixed in his mind, Paul Reed, well-known young Marietta man, did not hesitate to step on the gas when hoarse voices commanded him to halt in a dark spot near the Exposition cotton mills, and a flashlight—the traditional trademark of the night prowler—cast its weird beams on the front seat of his car, on which he was seated with a young lady, whom he was taking out for a quiet evening spin.

Nor did he hesitate to step on it with more fervor as pistol shots greeted his departure from the immediate scene of activities.

Did Not Hesitate.

Had Mr. Reed stopped to inquire whys and wherefores, the whole tangle of events would not have to be unravelled by a Cobb county magistrate Saturday morning. But—Mr. Reed thought that neither the time nor the occasion lent itself to wherefore or whys.

It all happened Wednesday night along about 7 o'clock, when darkness is stygian about the Exposition mills. The persons who approached Reed's car came in a rakish, piratical looking automobile, but it just so happened that they were John Venson and Carl Cates, Fulton county policemen, and being policemen they were looking for licker.

Reed didn't know these things. The policemen showed neither badge nor calling card. All they showed was a flashlight. Reed thought they were robbers, wherefore he departed in the general direction of Marietta as fast as the engine of his car would send him.

Not in Good Humor.

On the way to the river bridge the fender and gasoline tank of Reed's Packard were punctured by the fusillade that followed its dash.

It is extremely likely that Reed would have been running yet had he not encountered a jam of parked automobiles in Marietta. There the police car overtook him and though Reed was relieved to see that he hadn't been overhauled by bandits, he wasn't exactly in a good humor when he discovered that his pursuers were policemen. "Wotell." he remarked or words to that effect.

According to his statement, his anger grew when the police insisted on searching his car, despite the fact that the young lady was already frightened to a point where hysterics were momentarily and naturally expected. Finding no liquor, he declares, that the police sought to bring charges of speeding. Reed admits that he drove the car rapidly. He contends that he had justification.

Vulgar Language Charged.

He further avers that the policemen used vulgar and obstreperous language in the presence of the young lady. Also, he says, two men, who were not policemen were in the police car, and they had evidently been in liaison with liquor that the police hadn't confiscated. In addition to all these things, Reed says, th epolice accused him of stealing the car. When he was able to establish the fact that it belonged to his friend, Will Tate Holland, the police insisted on making the charge of speeding and hauling him back to Atlanta, where he had to make bond in the sum of $500, none of which he appreciated—not a blamed bit.

Wherefore he decided to bring some charges on his own hook, which he did, before a Marietta magistrate. The policemen are to face these charges Saturday with Reed determined that the cases go to the Cobb county grand jury. The policemen are charged with both a felony and a misdemeanor.

Brown Derby Won By Dean Brooks From Harold Hirsch

Atlanta Haberdashers Requested to "Tote" Out Best Hats for Athens "Prof."

BY HUGH J. ROWE.

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Atlanta haberdashers, attention!

Dean Brooks, of the University of Georgia school of commerce, will arrive Tuesday looking for the most expensive headpiece, bird cage, or Katie that the city affords.

In other words, he is coming to buy a hat.

But he is not going to pay for it himself. That pleasure has been allotted to Harold Hirsch, Atlanta chairman of the University of Georgia memorial fund campaign.

Wager Made.

Dean Brooks called Mr. Hirsch on the long distance telephone Wednesday.

"Athens is going over the top first," said the dean.

"Not on your life," replied the lawyer. "Atlanta is going over first."

"Bet you a hat on it," offered the wily dean.

"Done," replied Mr. Hirsch without a moment's hesitation.

"Over the Top."

Athens reported $144,165 today, more than $3,000 over her quota. Dean Brooks won the brown derby and Mr. Hirsch will have to pay for it.

Nothing but the most heavily upholstered and costly lid will satisfy the gentleman from Athens, so "tote" out your best ones, Atlanta chapeau dealers.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL IS DEFEATED BY LOWER HOUSE

Siegel Measure, to Increase Congress Size, Sent Back to Committee—Vote 146 to 142.

PARTY LINES BROKEN WHEN VOTE IS TAKEN

Opponents Contend That Membership Is Already Unwieldy and Increase Would Be Fatal.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, October 14.—The house recorded its opposition tonight to any increase in its membership, recommitting to the census committee by a vote of 146 to 142 the Siegel bill to increase its size from 435 to 460 members.

The vote was taken on a motion to recommit offered by Representative Fairfield, of Indiana, a republican member of the census committee, after nine hours of debate and wrangling over parliamentary procedure.

Previous to recommitting the bill, the house rejected, 140 to 146, an amendment by Representative Barbour, republican, California, to authorize reapportionment without any increase in membership. Another amendment, offered by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, to decrease the membership to 425 was smothered under an avalanche of "noes." Eleven southern states, which Mr. Tinkham charged had disfranchised negroes, would have lost thirty-three seats and Massachusetts one under his amendment, while a gain of twenty-four seats would have been split among a dozen states which made considerable gains in population during the last decade.

It was the second time within a year that the house has blocked efforts to increase its size, during the last session a bill to fix the membership at 483 being defeated. At that time, another bill providing for reapportionment under the 1920 census without increasing the number of members was passed by the house but no action was taken on it by the senate.

Opponents of the bill tonight contended that the house already was an unwieldy body and that it would function less efficiently with an increased membership. Chairman Siegel pleaded for the measure while Representatives Fairfield and Rankin, democrats, Mississippi, directed the attack against it. Party lines were disregarded in the final vote.

BOY BADLY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Norman Lewis Taken to Georgia Baptist Hospital—Negro Driver Surrenders Self.

Norman Lewis, 9 years old, of 104 West Fair street, was taken to Georgia Baptist hospital Friday afternoon in an unconscious condition after he had been struck by an automobile said to have been driven by a negro, Ezra Jackson. The lad sustained five or possibly more fractured ribs and a probable fracture of the skull. Little hope was held out for his recovery.

The accident occurred at the corner of Walker and West Fair streets shortly after 8 o'clock.

The boy was rendered unconscious instantly when struck, being hurled several feet in front of the automobile and run over by the two right wheels, before the driver could apply his brakes and check the car's progress.

According to available reports, the automobile was going south on Walker street. When it reached the intersection with West Fair street, it was stated, the boy stepped from the curbstone and started across Walker street, stepping squarely in front of the approaching car.

Two witnesses, C. G. Mitchell, of 44 Wall street, and C. B. Hicks, of 141 Holderness street, said that the driver was not exceeding 12 or 14 miles an hour. Mr. Mitchell was driving his car behind the one which struck the boy. The injured lad was picked up by Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Hicks and taken to Georgia Baptist hospital in the former's automobile.

According to R. J. Loomis, an employee of the Southeastern Express company, he was coming into town and was passed by Jackson, who was driving at a rapid rate of speed. It was stated that the negro driver stopped his car, but seeing the two men take charge of the injured boy and place him in the automobile, he drove on off.

The driver of the car, Ezra Jackson, a negro, 23 years old, giving his address as being 22-A Glennwood avenue, came to police station and gave himself up, last night about 8 o'clock. He declared it to be an unavoidable accident.

Plan New Reductions In Railroad Wages On November First

LIBERAL RESPONSE MADE BY ALUMNI TO GEORGIA CALL

"Every Man We Have Seen Has Done His Duty to Alma Mater," Declares Marion Smith.

ATHENS "OVER TOP" IN GREAT CAMPAIGN

Alumni Will Continue Drive There and Hope to Raise Total of $200,000 for Institution.

"Every Georgia man we have seen so far has done his share toward subscribing to the war memorial fund of his alma mater," was the way Marion Smith, vice chairamn of the Fulton county campaign committee, summed up the situation Friday in Atlanta as regards the campaign for $1,000,000 endowment for the University of Georgia.

Members of the teams, after their get-together luncheon of Thursday afternoon at the Ansley hotel have been putting in quiet, but effective work in seeing other alumni of the university. The result has been that the $80,000 originally subscribed at the dinner of Tuesday night which opened the campaign, has been materially increased. Official data on the total subscriptions in Atlanta and Fulton county to date had not been compiled Friday night, although at local headquarters it was expected that a statement as to the results of the drive would be forthcoming Sunday morning.

Canvassers to Meet.

At the luncheon Thursday, hope was expressed that the canvassing work among the alumni would be practically ended when Saturday closed so that the next week could be given over to seeing outside friends of the university. The members of the twelve teams, numbering 120 men, will meet again Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the dining room of the Ansley hotel and make further plans.

During Friday the news was received at Atlanta headquarters that Athens had oversubscribed her quota by more than $3,000. The city which has been the home of Georgia university during its long and useful history, has subscribed $144,165 towards its endowment. This represents pledges received off the campus, and hence does not include the $25,000 subscribed Tuesday night by the faculty. Telegrams received by Atlanta alumni from their fellow alumni at Athens stated that the former did not intend to rest on their oars after passing the allotted quota, but would keep on working for a $200,000 subscription.

Returns by Counties.

The tabulation of returns from various counties on the pledges received at the opening dinners of Tuesday night was received Friday at the office of Harold Hirsch, chairman of the campaign in Fulton county. These partial returns show a total of $339,869 subscribed distributed as follows:

Special gift	$ 50,000
Clarke county	105,974
Bibb county	20,575
Muscogee county	12,250
Fulton county	80,850
Chatham county	8,000
New York city	9,000
Glynn county	3,465
Floyd county	5,900
Clayton county	1,196
Wilkes county	2,525

Troup county	2,255
Ben Hill county	2,500
Baldwin county	2,000

Total	$339,869

Athens Over Top.

Athens, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Athens went over the top in the University of Georgia war memorial campaign today by subscribing $144,165, more than three thousand dollars above her quota, and is going ahead with her subscriptions with the intention of raising $200,000 for the university.

"Athens does not feel that she has done her duty by subscribing merely what is asked of her," said Walter Forbes, chairman of the team workers, at the campaign dinner today. "She has led the state in reaching her quota first. Now she will lead in going over her quota first. Athens must lift the standard of giving, so that the university will receive much more than the million which has been set as a minimum."

The old chapel bell rang out over the city today the cheering news that Athens had won her quota in less than four days after the open-

Rail Executives Decided on Drastic Cuts After Conference With Leaders of Brotherhoods.

UNION HEADS SILENT ON STRIKE QUESTION

Roads Not to Wait on Labor Board Before Putting the Slashes Into Effect.

Chicago, October 14.—Wage cuts ranging from 10 to 25 per cent will be put into effect by the railroads of the United States against practically 2,000,000 employees on November 1.

This was the decision, according to high authority, of the American Association of Railroad Executives here Friday night following a conference with the leaders of the five great brotherhoods—a conference which broke up when the union leaders summarily walked out after hearing the plans of the rail chiefs.

The conference lasted less than two hours. Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, acted as spokesman for the union leaders. W. W. Atterbury, operating vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, was spokesman for the executives.

Stone explained the case of the men—the fact that 1,750,000 railroad employees had voted to strike against the 12 per cent wage slash of July 1. He asked the executives to consider thoroughly before taking action on any further cuts.

Atterbury informed the union leaders of the action of the executives at the meeting earlier in the day.

The union leaders, when he had finished, rose and left. They grimly returned to their headquarters.

"We have nothing to say now," said Stone, when asked if the completed strike plans were to be put into effect.

A high official of the executive association informed the United News that the railroads are not going to wait for hearings before the railroad board before putting the proposed wage cuts into effect.

"The carriers will not act as a unit in cutting wages," he said. "Different roads will take various actions. But it is the purpose of practically all of the roads to put into effect as quickly as possible cuts of approximately 10 per cent on all train service men and to cut other branches of the service to current rates in other industry. In common labor branches the cut will be as high as 25 per cent. Many railroads will put this into effect on November 1.

"The railroad board has no authority to act except where there is a controversy. We will put the cut into effect and when the employees protest and the board acts, if necessary, we will make retroactive repayment, but we do not expect that the board will decide in favor of the men. This matter was thoroughly thrashed out in Washington."

The same authority said that he expected early action by the interstate commerce commission in readjusting freight rates downward.

The executives are not worried about the strike possibility and were jubilant when they left their hotel for private cars and special trains.

"No attempts will be made for any further conference with the train service organizations so far as I know," said Robert S. Binkerd, secretary of the executive association.

LEE INTIMATES STRIKE LIKELY.

Chicago, October 14.—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, late tonight said

SEASONABLE MEATS.

Mock Squabs.—Have six or eight slices cut from a loin of veal, half an inch thick, about seven inches long and four wide. Make a force meat of crumbs, fat pork, seasoned with paprika, onion juice and a little lemon juice. Moisten with a beaten egg and cover with this each slice of meat nearly to the edge, roll up tightly and tie with twine or fasten with toothpicks. Dredge with salt, pepper and flour; roast them until golden brown, being very careful that they do not brown or become too highly colored. When almost done add milk to almost cover and let simmer about 15 minutes or until quite tender. Remove the strings or picks, arrange the "squabs" on toast, garnish with parsley and pour a little of the milk gravy over each. Serve with asparagus or spinach.

Veal Pite.—Cut 3 pounds of lean veal into inch square cubes; put into a saucepan with a cup full of cold water and heat slowly. Remove the scum as it begins to boil; add 2 small onions, sliced, 2 tablespoons of carrots cubes and 1 teaspoon salt. Let simmer until very tender. Put the meat then into a deep baking dish. Let the liquor boil down to 1 cupful and a half; strain and remove most of the fat. Add ½ cup milk and pepper to taste. Thicken it with a tablespoon of flour rubbed in one of butter. Cook it five minutes and strain it over the meat. Place in baking pan, cover with rich biscuit dough half an inch thick and bake 1 hour, covered with thick paper. Uncover and brown.

SEASONABLE VEGETABLES.

Carrot Croquettes.—Wash and scrape and cook until very tender. Mash smooth and beat to a paste with the yolk of one egg, a tablespoon of butter, pepper and salt to taste. Let this paste get cold and stiff before making into balls. Roll in beaten egg, then in fine crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat. Drain and serve hot.

Baked Cabbage With Tomato Sauce.—Boil a cabbage in two waters; cut it fine and season with salt and pepper. Grease a pudding dish and put a layer of the cabbage in the bottom of it. Cover this laye rwith tomato sauce and sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Proceed in this way until the dish is full, having the last layer crumbs. Bake for half an hour.

Shredded Cabbage and Cheese.—Cut a cabbage into shreds and boil in salted water until tender. Drain and stand in a heated colander at the side of the range. Cook together two teaspoons butter and two flour and pour upon this a pint of the hot milk. Season with salt and pepper and stir in three heaping tablespoons of grated cheese. Cook, stirring constantly for a few minutes. Turn the cabbage into a vegetable dish and pour the cheese sauce over it.

SEASONABLE SALADS.

Veal Salad (Substitute for Chicken Salad).—Cut veal into small pieces; add as much celery or chopped cabbage as veal with 2 chopped hard boiled eggs. Pour over all a good dressing; mix well; set to cool and garnish with celery tops.

Cauliflower Salad.—Take nicely boiled cauliflower, separate the branches and mix them with any dressing. A little tarragon vinegar and finely chopped parsley may be added if French dressing is used.

SEASONABLE DESSERTS.

Banana Froth.—Whip a cup of cream stiff. Rub enough bananas through a fine sieve to make a cup of pulp and beat this at once into the whipped cream; add four tablespoons of powdered sugar and beat to a frothy mass. Line a glass dish with almond macaroons; fill it with the bananas' cream and sprinkle this generously with tiny bits of cherries. Serve at once.

Whipped Cream Pie.—Line with a pie plate with rich crust and bake in a hot oven. When cool spread over with a layer of jelly or marmalade. Whip one cup of thick cream, sweetened with powdered sugar and flavor with vanilla. Pour this over the marmalade.

Dried Peach Roll.—Four eggs, ¼ cup flour, ½ teaspoon lemon extract, 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 6 tablespoons butter (melted), 2 cups dried peaches. Soften and slightly sweeten the peaches, rub through sieve and keep them warm. Beat up eggs and sugar fives minutes, then beat over boiling water 10 minutes; take from water and beat until cold. Sift in flour mixed with baking powder, add lemon and butter; mix carefully, trun into a greased and floured jelly roll tin and bake in quick oven 12 minutes. Turn out a paper sprinkled with sugar, spread quickly with peach sauce, roll up at once and sprinkle with chopped nuts or cocoanut. This roll may be served hot as a pudding or cut in slices served cold with whipped cream.

Banana Shortcake.—Half cup sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg. Place in a mixing bowl and then cream well, then add 1¼ cups sifted flyour, 3 level teaspoons bak- sifted flour, 3 level teaspoons bak-tract, ½ cup water. Beat to mix and pour into well greased and floured oblong baking pans. Now spread the top of the cake with three bananas sliced very thin. Place in a moderate oven and bake for thirty-five minutes. Use the white of egg and half glass of apple jelly for a meringue.

SEASONABLE SALAD DRESSING.

Thousand Island Dressing—Half cup salad oil, juice of one lemon,

It's Puff! Puff! Puff! The Goddess Nicotine Must Have Incense

New York, October 14.—Tobacco manufacturers rolled 5,134,524,237 cigarets during the month of August. This is 43 per cent more than they rolled during the same month of 1920.

But they made 7 per cent fewer cigars, and that goes to show what the high prices for the big smokes, and the comparatively low prices for the little smokes, have done to the cigar trade.

For the first eight months of the year, cigaret production is 13 per cent ahead of last year, and cigar output is off 18 per cent.

Here are the figures for the month:

Cigarets	5,134,524,237
Cigars	622,039,033
Manufactured tobacco (lbs.)	33,601,590
Snuff (lbs.)	3,271,182

Think of it! Three and a quarter million pounds of snuff! And we thought snuff went out of fashion with silk knee-breeches!

IRISH CONFERENCE RESTS TO MONDAY

London, October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The adjournment today of the Irish conference until next Monday afternoon has no political significance, it was understood tonight. The postponement of the sittings of the conference, which aims at a solution of the Irish question, was attributed by the Sinn Fein delegates to the "Englishmen's passion for week-ending."

Some of the Irish delegates are taking advantage of the interval to visit Ireland in order to deal with what was described by the Sinn Fein publicity department as important departmental business. They will return Sunday night in ample time to attend the resumed session.

Considerable currency was given here today to a sensational report of the ordering of uniforms for the Irish republican army and the formation of a company to come to London to escort the dail delegation back to Ireland upon the conclusion of peace.

The story, however, was ridiculed by Sinn Fein leaders, who say no uniforming of the army is going on and that there is no question of any detachment coming to London at any time.

Since the truce there has been no interference by the military with the Irish republican army, uniformed or not, and its existence has been officially recognized for truce purposes, with the co-operation of liaison officers of the Irish republican army and the British army.

Overall Plant Bought.

Lynchburg, Va., October 14.—H. S. Martin, vice president of the Irving National bank, said to be representing the creditors' committee, today bought the plant of the Jobbers Overall company, bankrupt, at a receiver's sale, the purchase price being $675,000. There were several other bidders. No announcement was made as to what the creditors' committee proposed to do with the plant. The plant covers two city blocks in addition to a large dormitory, which represents a cost of over $700,000.

Famed American Guard of Honor To Visit London

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent.

London, October 14.—Five hundred Yanks from the Rhine, the finest troopers of the American army of occupation, will arrive in London Sunday night as bodyguard for General John J. Pershing, to participate in the ceremony of presenting the congressional medal to England's unknown soldier.

General Pershing will arrive Saturday evening at 7 o'clock, accompanied by Sir Henry Wilson. A stirring reception has been planned at Victoria station, where representatives of the war office will greet the American commander. After the reception, Pershing will be driven in semi-state to the American embassy, where he is to be the guest of Colonel George Harvey during his stay in London.

The American guard of honor will be quartered at the Duke of York's headquarters.

At 11 o'clock on the forenoon of the presentation day, Pershing will leave the embassy in a royal carriage with an escort of mounted police. The American troops will be drawn up in Parliament square, together with detachments from the British army, navy and royal air force. A small number of the Yankee soldiers will draw special assignments within the abbey itself.

H. R. H., the Duke of Connaught, will represent the king at the ceremonies at Westminster, and Premier Lloyd-George, it is announced, will attend the function, representing the government he heads.

A dinner to General Pershing will be given Monday evening at the American embassy.

The announcement that Ambassador Harvey would bestow the medal upon the unknown British hero caused some confusion in diplomatic circles, and brought about the issuance of a statement from the embassy itself clearing away any misunderstanding. It was explained that the law provides that the medal may be bestowed only by the president, but that President Harding conferred this power upon his repreesntative, Ambassador Harvey, who in turn is transferring his authority to General Pershing.

The general, therefore, will perform the physical act of conferring the medal.

Hollomon Explains How G.O.P. Selects New Postmasters

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON,
Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.

Washington, October 14.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—All over Georgia civil service examinations for postmasters of the presdential class have either recently been held, or will be held in the next few days.

By reason of this all Georgia congressmen are being deluged with letters from eligibles, or from those contemplating taking the examinations, urging their influence in the appointments. It will be well for all persons seeking salaried postoffice appointments to get clearly fixed in their minds just what the Harding civil service order is, and just how impossible it is for a democratic congressman to influence a postoffice appointment.

In the first place, the Harding order provides that the three applicants who make the highest examination averages shall constitute an eligible list from which any on may be appointed, the three standing on a parity.

This differs materially from the old Wilson order which provided that the three highest should be rated according to their respective grades, and that while these three highest should constitute an eligible list the highest applicant should be appointed unless tenable objections to the appointment should be made and sustained. In that even the next highest should be appointed, and so on.

Under the Harding order, however, framed for the specific purpose of giving republican applicants the advantage of appointments, the three highest stand on equal footing, even if one scores perfect and another barely crosses the dead line.

When these eligible lists are certified by the civil service division the postoffice department submits them to the republican state patronage referee who must o. k. one of the names in each list and the name thus approved is sent by the postmaster-general to the president and by him transmitted as a nomination to the senate.

It is not an unalterable rule that the name approved by the referee shall be appointed, but in 99 cases out of 100 his endorsement means appointment.

It is an immutable rule that no appointment will be made until the eligible list is submitted to the referee for his checking of one name.

The referee in Georgia is John Louis Phillips, chairman of the republican central committee, whose offices are in the Candler building in Atlanta.

He maintains headquarters also in the Raleigh hotel in Washington.

NO CHANGE IN OFFICE

Americus, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—While many towns and small cities are losing their uptown express offices through consolidation with the railroad station office, in a movement of economy now being put into effect all over the southeast, the Americus express office will remain without any changes. This was announced after a conference here of prominent officials of the American Railway Express company the Central of Georgia and the Seaboard Air Line railroads.

PLAN NEW REDUCTIONS IN RAILROAD WAGES

that the district chairmen of the unions would receive their final instructions tomorrow as to whether there would be a strike. Asked point-blank if a strike would be ordered, he said:

"I will not say definitely, but were I a betting man I would place my money that there would be a strike.

"Regardless of what action is taken, the final decision is only a matter of the rising and setting of a few hours. The district chairmen will receive their final orders tomorrow and then will go home. My chairmen already have been sent home and will receive their orders by mail."

Asked concerning the reports that a strike effective October 30 had been decided upon, Mr. Lee replied:

"I won't answer that definitely but if someone has told you that they have hit a lot of nails on the head—perhaps they are not exactly right, but they are driving close."

'GIVE A JOB' DRIVE TO AID IDLE MEN

Official of Federal Unemployment Conference May Take Tip From War Bond Campaigns.

Washington, October 14.—Instead of the war cry, "Buy a bond!" the new cry will be "Give a job!"

Instead of the Liberty loan drive, with its four-minute men, pageants, bazars and entertainments, America may see employment drives put over with equally dramatic salesmanship within the next few weeks.

Already several cities, none of them less than 25,000 population, have caught the germ, and Colonel Arthur Woods, chairman of the civic, community and permanent measures committee of President Harding's unemployment conference, has in mind a "spruce up" campaign that may, before he is through, develop into an old-fashioned "drive," he said Friday.

"The appeal of such a spruce up campaign ought to be strong, especially since the only contributions asked would be those of moral support," Colonel Woods said. "Such a drive would contemplate all sorts of reconstructive work from painting a chicken coop to fixing a factory."

New York Leads.

Such a "drive" might also urge the adoption by congress of the legislative proposals made by the conference: Sixteen million dollars for reclamation work, an appropriation for public road improvement, and increased appropriation to the department of labor.

"New York state has taken the lead in sprucing-up," said Colonel Woods. "Governor Miller has summoned the mayors and choolmasters of the prominent cities throughout the state to a conference where further measures will be discussed and adopted."

The conference will be in the form of a luncheon to be held Wednesday in New York city, and Colonel Woods has been invited to address the members.

"In many instances, the mayors have 'beat us to it,'" Colonel Woods declared. "New York, Savannah and several northwestern cities have taken the lead on the spruce-up idea.

Uniform Good Will.

Civic communities throughout the country have been informed of Colonel Woods' committee work, and the replies coming from the various communal groups shows a variety of needs but a uniform good will.

"The sentiment of the nation is, of course, favorable," Colonel Woods said, "but any drive, if it were started, would serve to focus the idea of unemployment service so that the remedy would be widespread, rather than narrowed down to a few large cities."

The more progressive banks, newspapers and business men in general are concerning themselves with the problem of crop diversification. They realize that Georgia farmers must not only raise diversified crops, BUT MUST BE SUPPLIED WITH A CASH MARKET FOR THESE CROPS.

A basic agricultural fact is that the profitable way to market corn and other feedstuffs is to feed it to live stock and then sell the stock.

By providing a cash market for this live stock, a market that is always available, a market whose prices are not fixed by any outside influence, the White Provision Company has been doing for many years what the best business brains of the state now declare to be necessary for the preservation of Georgia prosperity.

Tell Him Gently, but Firmly That You Want "Cornfield"

WHEN you call for White's Cornfield Brand and the dealer offers you a "a just as good" substitute, you can truthfully tell him that THERE IS NO OTHER HAM AS GOOD as this Georgia Raised Ham—Atlanta Cured, Atlanta Smoked with Georgia Hickory and Atlanta Packed.

—And with your Ham, order a box of Grandmother Brand Breakfast Sausage—a pure food product that brings back your old-time appetite for breakfast.

CIVITANS TO HOLD WEEKLY LUNCHEONS

Hereafter the Civitan club will hold its luncheons weekly instead of semi-monthly, it was announced Friday at the Civitan meeting by President Julian V. Boehm. The club recently voted to meet weekly and to limit the luncheons to one hour, beginning at 12:30. The luncheons are held at the Kimball house.

Officers for the coming year were formally elected Friday. A motion to direct the secretary to cast the unanimous vote of the club for the entire list of nominees as announced at the last meeting by a special nominating committee was carried. Julian V. Boehm, president, and B. Graham West, treasurer, were reelected for another term. Herbert Porter was elected vice president. Carey I. Harris was named secretary, and Everett N. Brown, who has acted as secretary since the club was first organized, will serve as assistant secretary. Ralph D[illegible]ns was elected sergeant-at-arms. The following directors were chosen: Julian Boehm, B. G. West, J. M. Van Harlingen, J. L. Logan, W. D. Ellis, Jr., Park Dallis, George McCarty, Dr. Cecil Stockard and J. G. Pasco.

Everett Brown, retiring secretary, made a report on the work of the club for the year, which showed that the present membership is 113 and that more than 60 business or professional classifications are represented in the club.

The club authorized Frank Brown, field organizer, to organize a Civitan club in LaGrange. Organizer Brown reported that he has just organized a Civitan club at Marietta with 25 members, and that plans are being made for the Atlanta club to present it with a charter. When the new club is chartered, he stated, the Civitan clubs in Georgia will be qualified to establish a state organization.

Plantation Negro Dancing Promised For Big Barbecue

A special feature has been arranged for the Atlanta Masonic club barbecue in the form of characteristic plantation negro dancing. These negroes are old-timers and are to be furnished for the occasion from the farm of H. G. Hastings. They have made a wonderful hit whenever they have appeared.

The big barbecue for the Masons and their ladies will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Ormewood Court, which is the receiving home of the Georgia Children's Home society, where a beautiful spread has been arranged. All the details of the barbecue have been worked out to a nicety through the efforts of A. L. Norris, Marvin Conway, Charles Praser and other members of the barbecue committee.

Through the activities of Henry Heinz, Newton Wing, W. R. Heston, John O. DuPree and other members of the entertainment committee a splendid program has been arranged. The Rotary club band will alternate with the Southland orchestra in furnishing music for the occasion, while an address will be made by Marcus C. Fagg, of Jacksonville, Fla., who is one of the highest authorities in the United States on the subject of child-placing.

The Atlanta Masonic club has secured a beautiful setting of silvered square and compasses to be awarded to that lodge which has the greatest number of members present at the barbecue.

As a booster for individual attendance a drawing will be had and the lucky parties will receive a ton of coal to be delivered by the Atlantic Ice and Coal corporation, and an order for one-half dozen cabinet photographs, to be furnished by Wesley Hirshberg, while the lucky lady present will receive a five-pound box of candy, donated by Norris Candy company.

J. C. Gentry and a corps of efficient workers will be in charge of the grounds, while George Donovan, Stiles Hopkins and their committee will receive the guests. George Eubanks will provide for the transportation, and his committee has arranged for a large number of automobiles to meet at the Masonic Temple at 2 o'clock for the purpose of driving out to the grounds.

Tickets for the barbecue are $1 per plate and can be secured at the Masonic Temple or from Paul M. Coleman, secretary of the Atlanta Masonic club, whose phone number is Main 3390.

The three offices of vice president, secretary and treasurer will be occupied by men chosen from the following: Coleman Daniel, Harry O'Brien, J. I. COUNTRY CLUB PLANS ACCEPTED BY DUBLINITES

Dublin, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Plans submitted for the country club by a well-known landscape gardener of Atlanta have been accepted, the directors of the club announced today. Active work will commence on the grounds during the next week and there is every indication that the plans for an "open house" by New Year's will be realized.

The plans, it is known, embrace a golf course, a large lake, tennis courts and the usual clubhouse facilities to make it a modern one in every detail.

Arguments relative to issuance of extradition papers by Governor Hardwick for John D. Walker, former Georgia banker, recently arrested in Texas upon an indictment returned by the grand jury three weeks ago at Sparta, charging embezzlement, Saturday were continued to Monday.

The disappearance of Walker, formerly of Sparta, created a sensation in banking circles about five years ago. Subsequent to his disappearance, several of his chain of banks were taken over by the state banking department. No indictment was returned, however, until three weeks ago.

JUDGE C. W. SMITH SEEKS EXTENSION OF WHITEFORD AVE.

Judge Charles Whiteford Smith appeared before the street committee of council Friday afternoon with a petition containing the signatures of a large number of residents of Druid Hills, as well as residents on Whiteford avenue, asking that the city extend Whiteford avenue to Fairview road. This would open direct conection with Druid Hills.

City council had the question before it some time ago and appointed A. A. McCord to negotiate with the Druid Hills Land company for the necessary strip through its property to extend the street. Mr. McCord reported that he conferred with Forrest Adair, spokesman of the company, and that he had declined to entertain the proposition.

It is stated that if the company remains unchanged in its attitude the city will be asked to condemn a right of way for extension of the street through its property.

Word was received at the meeting that Mr. Adair wished to be heard if the matter came before the committee again and definite action on the request of Judge Smith and the other citizens who signed the petition was deferred until the next meeting.

SERVE TAX NOTICE ON BERRY SCHOOL

As the result of notice received by state officials to the effect that The Berry schools, an eleemosynary eleemosynary institution which are institution in Floyd county, which are conducted by individual endowments, have made no tax returns for the years 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918, Governor Hardwick has placed the matter in the hands of State Tax Collector Fullbright who in turn has instructed attorneys to serve notice on the institution to make returns within twenty days' time.

The Berry schools, which are operated by Miss Martha Berry, coming as they do under the category of a purely charitable institution, were believed to be, and have been operated under the belief, that they are exempt from paying state taxes. In so far as can be ascertained from records, no attempt has been made during the alleged period of delinquency to collect such taxes.

Notice Is Served.

On September 24, 1921, legal notice was served on the Berry schools, a corporation, to make complete returns for the above mentioned period to the tax receiver of Floyd county, the taxable items to include all real estate owned by the school in Floyd county.

The acts of 1918 specify that exemption from taxation shall be extended the endowment of colleges, incorporated academies and other seminaries of learning, when they are not invested in real estate and where such institutions are open to the general public. A re-enactment of this act is contained in the laws of 1919, page 82, No. 62, making the same provisions as those contained in the acts of the preceding year.

It is understood from state officials at the capitol that the legal status of the proceedings will remain stationary for the time being, during which time the institution has been instructed to make returns for all taxable property and other items.

It is said to be problematical as to what course the Berry schools will pursue in view of the legal notice. In case they should make no returns, it was stated from reliable sources that the tax collector of Floyd county will assess all property owned by the school.

If, in turn, objections are raised upon this procedure by officials of the institution the matter will come to a court issue to be settled in the superior court.

Doubt as to Outcome.

Certain phases of the case, in its present status, have caused state officials to express doubt as to the ultimate outcome.

In view of the fact that the school has paid no taxes for the years during which no objection has been raised in official quarters, it would be assumed, it is stated, that the school would come under the category of the non-taxable. On the other hand, if it be liable to tax, it is pointed out that it would be both an enormous and an unjust burden to collect retroactive taxes for the years stipulated.

The objection regarding its exemption from taxation appears to center around the clause of the state statute of 1919, in which it is expressly specified that such charitable institutions are exempt "when same are not invested in real estate."

It is thought future action in enforcement of the real estate clause of the state exemption act will hinge entirely upon the fact that the school is located on considerable property which is taxable, while the school itself, under the law, is non-taxable.

As understood, the tax is not upon the school itself or the endowments, but upon the taxable real estate.

The Berry school is believed to have done more for the physical, moral and educational development of the boys and girls of the north Georgia mountainous sections than perhaps any other single institution in the state or in the south.

It was organized, not as a monetary proposition, but Miss Berry was actuated solely by the desire to render service and assistance to the children in isolated regions, most of whom have no access to cities to avail themselves of the public school facilities.

Present October Is Colder Than 42-Year Average

Atlantans spoke of Friday as an ideal weather day, and it was, but at the same time the thermometer recorded the lowest temperature Atlanta has experienced since last spring, according to information given out Friday afternoon by C. F. von Herrmann, local weather recorder.

He said that the mercury dropped to 40 degrees at 7 o'clock Friday morning, and that the lowest temperature recorded here prior to Friday and since last spring was 42 degrees, which was recorded two days during this October.

"In fact," said Mr. von Herrmann, "the present October is colder than normal. For the first fourteen days the aggregate temperature is 87 degrees below the average temperature for the first fourteen days of the Octobers of the last forty-two years. In other words, Atlanta has experienced during the last fourteen days, an average of 6 degrees colder weather than is the average for local Octobers."

Mr. von Herrmann also declared that a light frost visited Atlanta Friday morning, which makes two such visits this month, the other having happened on October 9.

"It was not a killing frost," he said, "and we will not probably get a killing one until November. As for cold October days, the lowest temperature recorded on an October day during the last forty-two years was 28.4 degrees on October 24, 1917. Although, this October has started out with low temperature, it is probable that the latter part of the month will see higher temperature. It may imitate the month of March, come in like a lion and exit like a lamb."

He also stated that October is the dryest month of the year and added that the only place in the United States which reported rain Thursday was Miami, Fla., where only .28 inches fell. He added that the only rain which fell here last October was .54 inches on the 26th.

The forecast for Atlanta Saturday is fair and warmer weather. Mr. von Hermann in his remarks stated that only five cities in the United States Friday experienced temperature as low as Atlanta, and also observed that Phoenix, Ariz., recorded the high temperature of 92 degrees.

'MACK' MAKES APPEAL FOR 'TRAIL-HITTERS'

"Cyclone Mack's" sermon at the Baptist Tabernacle church last night on "How I Broke Into Society" was preceded by the rather unusual appeal for "trail-hitters."

Less than half a score responded but they came down and grabbed his hand without ostentation or the lure of revival music. Mack had called for those who heard his sermon night before last on "The Devil," and to whom the urge had been a continued dogging sensation.

There was another novel feature to the service. Here as Mack's guest at the Piedmont is George Koester, who in The Literary Digest, and on the screen is the most widely quoted paragrapher in the country. Mr. Koester came over yesterday ahead of the "Carolina Special" which is slated to arrive Sunday morning. He edits the Greenville, S. C., Piedmont and publishes the paper that first turned over its columns to support the McLendon meetings.

"I believe newspapermen are called to their work just as much as ministers of the gospel," Mr. Koester said. "The craft holds to the belief that if there are any newspapers operated in heaven they will be run by amateurs and that is one reason I try to be an exception to the rule.

"McLendon, bless his bushy headed soul, is born of God. I have followed his campaigns wherever he has been and I am here to tell you that his work lives after him. If you praying people in Atlanta will put your prayers with his, he is going to have a great revival here yet."

Some of the Mackgrams were:

"Every misconception of God really introduces a false God."

"It is one thing to have your name on some musty, dusty, rusty church record and be crusty about that and another thing to have it on the record in the skies."

"It is one thing to take the cup of communion and it is another thing to take the cup of salvation."

"Jesus Christ succeeds on the heels of everybody else's failure."

"It is possible to have one's stock very low on earth and that same religious stock very high in Heaven."

MAN IS PARDONED BEFORE BEGINNING TO SERVE TERM

Nashville, Tenn., October 14. Donald Rawling, of Knoxville, whose sentence of one to five years in the state penitentiary for attempting to commit voluntary manslaughter, was affirmed last week by supreme court, was pardoned by Governor Alfred A. Taylor today before beginning to serve his sentence.

The petition for Rawling's release was signed by a large number of citizens from Knox county, including the twelve jurors who served during his trial; United States Senator John K. Shields, Congressman J. Will Taylor, of Tennessee, several city and county officials and Bishop Samuel Hargraves, negro.

Rawling shot Arthur Hendrix, a negro, who had confessed to an attempt to assault his sister. At the time of the shooting the negro was in custody of an officer and was being taken from the magistrate's office where he acknowledged his guilt.

Georgia Bulldogs Are Eager for Fray With John Harvard Today

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY.

Boston, Mass., October 14.—(Special.)—Georgia's big test with the Harvard Crimson begins within a few hours, and the Bulldog is confident of victory. These sons of the old red hills are girded for the fray, and John Harvard's offspring are in for the biggest shock of their young lives if they are under-estimating the strength of these Athenian stalwarts.

The day before the fracas was an eventful one to both players and camp followers. Starting with a sight-seeing tour shortly after our arrival at the Copley Plaza hotel—Georgia headquarters—the festivities were brought to a close tonight with a dance given in honor of the Georgians.

It was not a question of all play, however. The lads had their first whiff of the Harvard stadium's noted air currents, and conducted themselves like the veterans they are. It was a short workout but filled with just the sort of stuff that unlimbers men after the long trip this jaunt has been, and the squad is in excellent shape tonight.

Georgia Team at Maximum Strength.

Georgia is entering Saturday's combat with her maximum strength. There is a bit of concern in headquarters tonight anent that boil on "Puss" Welchel's knee, but this trouble is much better than it was 24 hours ago, and the indications now are that "Puss' is going to take up his duties when the struggle is started.

John Fletcher shows a slight limp in running, the result of a twisted ankle, but his injury is far from being sufficient to keep this fleet back on the side lines. John has been looking forward for weeks to the battle with the Crimson, and he isn't going to let a twisted ankle spoil his opportunity.

The wagering has failed to put in an appearance at the Copley Plaza, but I have been told that some bets spotting Georgia 17 points had been made. But I haven't seen any shekels passed, and if the Boston wagerers believe that the Bulldog is going to be trimmed by those figures or larger, they are not backing their judgment with their pocketbooks.

Boston Writers Are Surprised.

Boston sport writers that came out to see Georgia practice this afternoon were distinctly surprised. With all of their trick plays under cover and doing nothing but making half-hearted stabs at some imaginary opponent, the Bulldogs created a look of strength much more than these New England dopeesters previously had been willing to grant them.

The truth of the matter is that Boston scribes, and I believe Harvard coaches may be included, have been asleep at the switch, and they are running a mighty good chance of paying the penalty. They don't believe up here that real football is played in the south. They make no bones about expressing the opinion that Centre was a team that the south won't be able to duplicate in fifty years—and the defeat of these same Colonels at the hands of the Golden Tornado is laid by Bostonians to the physical drubbing "Bo" McMillan and his crew took in Cambridge the week before the meeting with Georgia Tech.

The result is that Harvard is a little overconfident of crushing the Bulldogs.

Georgia to Profit By Harvard Confidence.

And Georgia is in a fair way to profit by the Crimson's mistake. The problem just now is coping with the Harvard goal-kickers, Charlie Buell and Pfaffmann. Buell ranks as just about the best in the country in dropkicking, and from descriptions of his method, he must be the ideal type of field goal scorer.

The formation from which he sends his trials is an oft-used affair at Harvard, and he is very likely to get off one against the Georgians, but if he doesn't have the hardest time sending them through the posts against the Red and Black than any opposition he has faced this season, these Georgia camp-followers are going to be the worst fooled people in the United States tomorrow night.

Compared physically with the Crimson players, Georgia suffers nothing. Her men are just as strong, just as big and probably know just as much about football. Harvard's running attack is highly developed, but Georgia has men in her line that will hold the best directed thrusts. In the kicking department, the Crimson holds the advantage; there is little to fear from passing in the Harvard scoring.

Stop Buell Is Watchword.

Stop Buell and Pfaffmann is the one thought that is going the rounds at this time, and it certainly seems to be a fairly good way to keep the Crimson from taking up a whole lot of room on the scoreboard. Randall, who will probably do the dropkicking for the Red and Black, if this method is resorted to, is as accurate as Buell and gets fine distance, but he seems to be slow about getting them off, and the risk of attempting many would be too great. He booted eleven straights between the posts this afternoon, but the execution was slow.

Line-up follows:

AUBURN 56; CLEMSON 0

Auburn, Ala., October 14.—Mike Donahue's Plainsmen literally swept Clemson from further southern football consideration for this season today, when Auburn ran up 56 points, while not permitting the South Carolinians to endanger their goal line.

It was as urprising showing to even the most ardent Auburn people, as the word had come that Clemson was prepared to avenge successive defeats at the hands of Auburn.

Donahue's men showed a splendid variety of attack right after the whistle sounded. The first period fourteen points were scored. The second period netted seven more and the last half was a succession of touchdowns.

Bob Luton Now Professional

BOB LUTON.

Bob Luton, Atlanta race demon, is slated to enter in upon his professional career today when he starts in a feature event with the world's greatest dirt track stars at the Southeastern fair.

Luton has won his spurs—he has been recognized by the International Motor Contest association, the governing body for the game in America, as a professional driver, and he will line up at the tape for the first time in the role of a professional race driver. He is well known in Atlanta, where he has appeared in several amateur races, and has always been a favorite with the "speed bugs" because of his fearless and dare-devil performances.

Luton will drive his Essex in the races today, and the little mount with Bob at the wheel will doubtless give the visiting pilots with their imported cars some real competition. In the past two days he has turned some sensational miles on the Lakewood oval, and has annexed for himself two new records. Luton stated last night that his car was in perfect condition, and that if he did not make a good showing against the professionals there would be no alibi for him.

Today is the last day for the auto races at the Southeastern fair, and a great list of events is scheduled. So far the program has been the best ever seen on the Lakewood track, there has been more real competition and hard driving than in any former race meeting, and the elimination of the dust menace has added considerable to the enjoyment of the spectators.

Football Curtain Goes Up Today

BY FUZZY WOODRUFF

Furman to Give Tech Real Battle

The curtain goes up today. The south, except in rare and isolated cases, is through fooling with its football. From now on every game that is played in this section will be a battle and in every battle the issue will, to an extent be in doubt. Thank the fates, we are through with combats in which the making of a first down by a team is something to comment on.

The Tornado gets its last warmup today. I believe that the Tornado will be well named before it gets through with Furman. Not that the Tornado is in any danger of being counter-blasted by the Purple Hurricane, but all through that struggle on Grant field this afternoon the North avenue entry must be right on its cleats to keep its goal line inviolate.

Furman arrived in Atlanta yesterday and spent the day resting. Rest is needed more than anything else the Purple Hurricane knows about. Its membership was frightfully worn out, trying to stop Georgia's onslaughts last week and this week has been largely put in trying to recover the various parts of the machine that were left scattered about Sanford field.

But despite the harrowing experiences at Georgia, Furman believes that it is going to make a good showing against Georgia Tech. Furman believed it would make a good showing against Georgia. It did.

Billy Laval, the dry, taciturn little coach who has put the Purple on the football map, bemoans the condition of his team. That is the nature and the prerogative of a football coach. Just the same Billy thinks that he can interest Tech.

I am firmly of the opinion that he will not only interest Tech but will interest the spectators. Laval knows that his little team will not do a whole lot of good, smashing at Tech's big line. Wherefore we are likely to see the air full of football all afternoon—and when Furman is chunking or kicking the football, the chunker or kicker knows where the football is headed.

What Do You Know About Auburn?

Any football team that has Auburn on its schedule this season will do well to take a new hitch in its trousers and a new perspective on life in general. This applies to both Georgia and Georgia Tech.

We had been hearing wierd things about Auburn all year—things to the effect that Mike Donahue had sent his old battering ram into the warehouse for good and all and was prepared to startle the world with his speed. We listened to it with interest and then went along expecting to see an Auburn team with a couple of tons in the line and four or five fullbacks playing the usual plugging game.

But these tidings from Auburn of yesterday are nothing less than startling. They are particularly startling because it seems that the advance stuff from Auburn was gospel truth—which football advance stuff frequently is not. Fifty-six to nothing. And Clemson had journeyed to Auburn confident of ruining the Plainsmen. Fifty-six to nothing. And Clemson had held Centre to two measly touchdowns with Centre playing the best football it has played in two years.

I talked to Donahue over the phone last night. "How did it happen?" I asked. "We were too fast for them," said Mike modestly. "How did you do your scoring?" was the question number 2. "Forward passing and end runs," quoth modest Mike.

Ye gods and little fishes—Auburn beating anybody by forward passing and end running. The next thing I expect to hear is that Jess Willard has become a toe dancer.

Why Southern Football Has Improved.

It wouldn't take a great mind to discover the real reason for the rapid strides made in football in the south if the person owning the mind had happened to journey out to Ponce de Leon yesterday afternoon to see the University School-Boys' High game. The answer is easy. They catching 'em young and teaching them their business.

Until we had real high school football our varsity football always limped. We are getting real high school football now. Tackling in that football game yesterday was as fierce and clean as anybody cares to see. The expertness with which the Bluebirds hit their men was a positive revelation to one who is accustomed to expect little of the prep schoolers. Fred Hager deserves the loudest and longest praises for the way he has taught the fundamentals.

And just one word more about those boys. Last year during the basketball season, the preppers ran wild. They added free-for-all fights to their every contest. Scholastic athletics were threatened.

Yesterday the game was bitterly and desperately fought. There was not one sign of rowdyism. It may have been a new prep school spirit. It may have been that the officials were excellent. The officials were Buck Flowers, Charlie Thompson and Shorty Doyal. I guess both factors had something to do with it. Anyhow, the conduct of both players and student bodies couldn't have been improved on.

Buck Flowers Likes Georgia's Chances.

Buck Flowers, the famous Tech athlete, has officiated a couple of times for Georgia this year, and he is one man in Atlanta who expects to see Georgia give Harvard a regular run for its money today.

"If Harvard tries to fool around, Harvard will get beat," says Buck. "That's one team you can't fool with. It is 100 per cent better than the Georgia team that we saw beat Alabama last year, and that's the sort of a team nobody can monkey with."

Old Father Time Is Buffeted By Demon Racers at Lakewood

Horey, in His Sensational Briscoe, Breaks Two-Mile Track Record—Luton Stars.

Old Father Time was buffeted from one end of the race track to the other during the course of Friday's automobile races at the Southeastern fair. Fred Horey, former world's dirt track champion, played the stellar role. In this he was aided and abetted by Johnny Raimey, light car champion, and the speed bugs who filled the grandstand and lined the course gave the man with the scythe and the hour glass the "raspberry."

It was a great afternoon for Horey and his sensational Brisco. He broke the 2-mile track record by 4 3-5 seconds; made a new southern states record for 5 miles in competition, while breaking the local track record for the distance by 19 1-5 seconds, and won two other races of 5 miles each.

In the two-mile time trials, Horey pushed his Briscoe to the limit and made the distance in 1:39 1-5, an average of 49 3-5 seconds to the mile. In the second heat of the Atlanta derby, Horey negotiated the 5 miles in 4:15 3-5 seconds, at an average per mile of a fraction of over 51 seconds. The previous record was 4:34 4-5.

Horey's time in the 5-mile competition, in which he made the record, is better appreciated when it is recalled that a few years ago, when Barney Oldfield, master driver, met Ralph De Palma on the local course in a series of match races, the fastest time made by the winner of the 5-mile event averaged around 53 seconds.

Raimey in Limelight.

Johnny Raimey was first to get in the limelight when he broke the 2-mile track record by making the two laps in 1:42 3-5. The plaudits of the crowd had hardly died away, however, when Horey took the spotlight away from the Memphis driver.

Every race on the program was hotly contested and aroused the enthusiasm of the speed bugs to a high pitch. Bob Luton, the local boy, came in for his share of applause when he made two miles in 1:44 4-5 in his Essex, which was only a second behind the record.

In the first event Bob Maley, of Des Moines, furnished a surprise when he pushed his Ruggatti first across the wire, defeating Elmer Meyers in his Deusenberg and "Norske" Larson in his Mooney Ford.

Jimmy Toft took the second event in a Briscoe, with Eddie Burgett, and his Oldsmobile second, and Johnny Raimey third. The trio were not more than two car lengths apart during the entire three miles.

Horey won his first race of the afternoon when he defeated Anderson in a Darracq and Hoffman in a Case, who finished in the order named. He made the five miles in 4:35 3-5.

Horey Overtakes Field.

Following the two-mile trials, Horey, starting at scratch, overtook the field in 5 miles and gave the first inkling of what was to follow in his next 5-mile attempt. It took all of his ingenuity, nerve and driving experience to catch his competitors, who were sent away one at a time, ten seconds apart, giving the first car at least a half-mile start. "Norske" Larson drove his Mooney Ford to the limit and had the race won until the last 100 yards, when Horey, with a supreme burst of speed, overtook him and won by inches.

In the 5-mile Atlanta derby, the cars were started in speedway style two abreast, with six cars entered. As the cars crossed the starting line, Horey and Raimey, in the rear row, stepped on the "gas" and in less than a lap were in the lead. They fought it out for two laps, Raimey hanging on doggedly, but gradually losing distance as Horey continued to take the turns at breathless speed and thundered down the straightaways around 100 miles an hour. It was apparent that a new record was in the making, and when the time was announced he was given a tremendous ovation.

The track was in much better shape than on the opening day and track experts again took charge immediately after the races to make it even faster for today.

One of the most interesting events today will be the final of the Atlanta derby, in which Horey, Raimey, Toft and Burgett will meet. They finished first and second in their respective heats.

Another feature event will be a match race in which Bob Luton and Harry Glenn, the two fastest of the local drivers, will meet two of the visiting drivers whose time in the time trials equaled theirs.

Summary.

Event No. 1—Distance 5 miles. Light car race. Maney (Buggatti), first; Meyers (Deusenberg), second; Larson (Mooney Ford), third. Time 4:46 4-5.

Event No. 2—Distance 3 miles. Championship match race. Toft (Briscoe), first; Burgett (Oldsmobile), second; Raimey (Haynes Special), third. Time 2:51 3-5.

Clemson Absolutely Ruined By Great Plainsmen Attack

Auburn Runs Up 56 Points When Carolinians Fail to Stop Furious Offensive.

Auburn, Ala., October 14.—The Clemson Tiger was sent journeying back to his Carolina lair this afternoon after being considerably chewed up by the tiger of the plains in the annual Tiger-Tiger clash on Drake field when the Auburn Plainsmen scored 56 points while the Clemsonites failed to count.

The bleachers, all standing room and parking space were filled before the game was called at 3 o'clock. The weather was ideal with a clear sky and but little wind stirring to disturb the large number of kicks used by both teams. The Auburn team appeared on the field about 15 minutes before the game started and was greeted by the famous Auburn band playing "Touchdown Auburn," which was aided by the cheers from twelve hundred students who had assembled to see their fighting Tigers.

After two minutes of play the outcome looked decidedly in Auburn's favor. "Big Ed" Shirling opened up with his battering tactics which was evidently too much for the big Clemson linemen while John Barleycorn Shirey started his sweeping end runs. With Gibson ripping off gain after gain right and left. Ollinger's kicking was superb and time after time he sent the oval far into enemy territory.

As for the stars from an Auburn standpoint they are numbered by the number of men taking part in the game. In the line Captain Caton at center stopped many of the Clemson backs for no gain. Moulton at end and Pearce at tackle did great work for the Plainsmen.

Clemson used the "double fullback" formation with the center standing at right angles to the opposing line and passing or handing the ball to the runner. The Auburnites seemed to diagnose this formation at once and Clemson was unable to make but four first downs during the whole game.

The outstanding stars for Clemson were, Spearman at end, Harmon at quarter, and Colbert and Emanuel at the halves.

Clemson threatened Auburn's goal only once when with a series of long passes put the ball on Auburn's 10-yard line, when they attempted another pass which was incomplete.

Real Football Game Today As Tornado Meets Hurricane

Flashy and Courageous Furman Team Looked to Give Georgia Tech Hard Fight.

BY JOHN STATON.

There will be need of a weather prophet or wind judge out on Grant field this afternoon. For the Golden Tornado and the Purple Hurricane will blow against each other, not the mild type of zephyr or sweet evening breeze that is so satisfying, but a real blow that blows hard. Tech, of course, is hoping to have the stronger bellows but then you must never underrate an opponent. At any rate the best game of the season so far will get under way at 2:30.

Furman comes down with the overwhelming desire to redeem the prestige lost by her last defeat. Up until 1919 Furman was a regular opponent of Tech. I believe they had second or third place on the schedule. The last time that Tech and Furman met the score was something like 70 to 0. Since that time Furman has been slowly and surely developing a formidable aggregation. Last year they had one of the best teams in the south and were given due credit for their wonderful showing. This year, with an even break of luck, the team should be even better. The players have had the advantage of one year's team work and experience. As was said Furman started building from the ground and now has become a real contender in southern football.

Town Behind Furman.

The school situated in Greenville, S. C., has only an enrollment of about 500 students. The town is solidly behind Furman. This probably accounts for Furman's good work. It is an appreciative school and works to make Greenville proud of it. It deserves great credit for the excellent showing that they have made in the last two years.

It is true that no "Speedy" Speer will line up against Tech but why worry with such men as Rhame and McManaway in the backfield.

Furman is a crowd that charges hard and fights everlastingly. They have the vicious aggressiveness of Davidson combined with the speed of Pitt. Hammet, their center, will remind you quite a bit of Dad Amis. Cool and reserved, yet having a fair degree of speed and bulldoy tenacity, he plays first backer-up and plays it well. Very few men ever come through a hole in the line without being nabbed and nabbed proper. When he hits them they back up and sit down. They don't fall their length on Hammet. People who saw the Georgia-Furman game say that he gave "Bum" Day a very good day's workout. In fact just a little bit more than the honorable "Bum" Day could conveniently take care of. McLeod is another tower of strength in the line. He is a tackler of the new school. The kind that charges in first and thinks about it later.

Real Football Game.

Most people are inclined to consider the Furman game too lightly. This is one of the greatest mistakes that a person could make. From every angle it will be a real football game. Furman has some plays that carry a continual threat. Plays that will bear watching on the part of every Tech man in the game. Furman plays the type of football that Centre employs.

A wild game taking chances on anything in any part of the field. They have supreme confidence in themselves and their position on the field does not prevent them from attempting a risky and daring play. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose. To score on Tech will be a pretty big thing. They realize it and are willing to try anything. Don't be surprised if they try a pass within their own 10-yard line or sweeping end run from behind their own goal. They are the type of players that will take a chance, a big chance in the hope that they might be successful.

The players on the Tech team certainly realize Furman's strength. Two days of hard scrimmage against Furman's formation has given them some insight as to what they might expect. And also a holy fear that one of their long passes might work for a touchdown. We have been at a harder pace this past week than we have before. The fellows are getting their minds on the game, knowing full well that Furman will be no easy meat.

So if you, general reader, had made up your mind that it was not going to be much of a game, get that idea out of your head. Come out to Grant field and see a real scrap. The line-up for the two teams is as follows:

FURMAN	Pos.	TECH
Bradley	l. e.	J. Staton
Langford	l. t.	McCree
Cox	l. g.	LeBey
Hammet	c.	Amis

McManaway	q. b.	McDonough

Decatur Beats Kirkwood.

Decatur High defeated the Kirkwood High football eleven by a score of 13 to 0 Friday afternoon at Decatur in a very fast and interesting game. Both teams played well especially in the first half, neither side being able to score.

In the third quarter the Decatur High team scored a touchdown by some good end running by Jackson and Adamson. The work of Melton and Griffin in the line was good, both aiding very materially in the scoring.

The Decatur High team scored another touchdown in the final quarter on straight line bucks and end running.

Captain Barnes and Picket played good ball for the losers.

BLUEBIRDS 14; BOYS' HIGH 7

BY ROY WHITE.

University School for Boys, 14; Boys' High, 7. Therein lies the story of one of the best prep football games of the year. The game was played at Ponce de Leon Friday afternoon before a large delegation of prep fans.

To Captain Red Laird, of the University School eleven, goes the credit of the game, for it was his quick headwork in the second quarter that gave the Bluebirds their first touchdown, and his line-smashing in the same quarter that scored another.

Boys' High scored their only touchdown in the final quarter of the game when Stephens fell on the ball over the Bluebirds' goal line after Laird had failed to recover an awful bad pass after he had dropped back to punt.

The line-up:

UNIVERSITY.	Pos.	BOYS' HIGH.
Freeman	l. e.	Stephens
Richardson	l. t.	Levison
Wells	l. g.	McIntyre
Murray	c.	Bond
Quarles	r. g.	Slate
Broadnax	r. t.	Fitts
T. Boswell	r. e.	Garlington
Walsh	q.	Boland
Rubenstein	l. h.	Jameson
Laird	f.	Pool
B. Boswell	r. h.	Wallace

Flowers (T.), referee; Thomnson (G.), umpire; Doyle (T.), head lineman. Touchdowns, Laird, Boswell, Stephens; goals after touchdowns, Pool, Laird 2. Substitutes for Boys' High, Palmer for Bond, Russell for Jameson.

Prep football fans of Atlanta will have another treat this morning at 10 o'clock, when Tech High lines up against Coach Mosley's Gordon Institute.

The game promises to be one of the best grid games of the year.

The team that wins the game today will have a strong hold on the G. I. A. A., and will have to be reckoned with before the season draws to a close. So both teams are out for a victory.

MARIST BEATS GRIFFIN 24-0

Griffin, Ga., October 14.—(Special.) Coach Bean's Marist college gridders gridded the fast Griffin High school out of a victory here this afternoon when the Ivy street lads three times sent a runner across the local's goal line for a touchdown, and on another occasion were they successful with a drop kick, Mike Dorsch registering a field goal for the winners in the opening quarter. The final score was 24 to 0.

BIG RING IS ON WAY HERE

Lexington, Ky., October 14.—The forty-ninth annual meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association came to a close this afternoon with the 2:05 trot and the 2:01 pace as features. Each proved a good contest, Jane the Great winning the trot after losing the first heat to Kilo Watts, and San Ardo capturing the pace after finishing third in the second heat, won by Hal Mahone. The circuit opens its final week in Atlanta Monday.

The final heat of the meeting was marred by a bad spill when Sir Roch and Senator Wilkes went down while rounding the first turn. Charles Dean, Jr., and Harry Gray were handling the reins on the two horses. Neither horses nor drivers sustained serious injuries.

COMMERCIAL BEATS FULTON

Commercial romped away with Fulton High, 26 to 0, Friday afternoon at Grant park. The game was distinguished by ragged playing and demonstrated the fact that the Fulton team, although green and hopelessly outweighed, was a game and fighting bunch.

SCHWAB WINS AT INGLESIDE

BY CLIFF NEAR, JR.

Robert Schwab defeated Marion Rosenberg in a spectacular match Friday on the Ingleside course and won the right to engage in the semi-finals of the club championship tournament.

It was a match replete with interest. Both are excellent golfers and all pre-match wagers were even. Why did it not prolong until sunset, as was expected? Merely because Mr. Schwab had the more deadly punch.

At the finish of hole 16 both players were even. Rosenberg copped the next one, and had Schwab dormie one. It was then that the gallery expressed sympathy for Schwab, judging that he was ready to give up.

But, not on your life! He took hole 18 and with the sangfroid of a tried veteran took the next one. It was over, and Mr. Schwab had the right to say: "I'm good, for I was once lucky enough to win from Marion Rosenberg 1 up in 19 holes." And by way of parentheses, a man who can say that is saying something which would make any member of the Ingleside club sit up and take notice.

In the semi-finals, Schwab will meet M. A. Ferst, while Leonard Haas will lock horns with William Kingdon. Those semi-final matches were slated to come off Saturday, but they have been postponed on account of the Tech-Furman football game.

Ansley Park.

Stewart Chalmers, Ansley park professional, lured a pair of players to his course Friday, much to the joy of one and to the chagrin of the other.

W. Zode Smith in his second round match with Dr. J. P. Kennedy for the club championship, won easily 5 up and 4 to play.

At Druid Hills no matches were played Friday and the same can be said of East Lake. A number of aspirants for the championship of the Women's Southern Golf association are practicing on the latter course and the course has been barred to further club tournament play. For that reason the finalists, R. P. Jones and Chick Ridley, in the Atlanta Athletic club championship tournament, must delay their try for the cup until the ladies' tournament is over.

DUBLIN HI 27; SAVANNAH 6

Dublin, Ga., October 14.—(Special.) In the greatest football game ever played in Dublin the Green Hurricane eleven defeated the fast Savannah High school team this afternoon by the decisive score of 27 to 6. The visitors' only points were scored on two field goals, both from the 32-yard line by W. Connor in the final quarter of the game. The teams were about evenly matched in weight, and both played hard ball throughout the fray.

Tech Freshmen Meet Alabama's At Grant Field

The Georgia Tech freshmen get into the swing of their season this afternoon. This afternoon's game will be one of those intercollegiate affairs that are so much craved by the freshmen. The University of Alabama freshmen will furnish competition for the crew of George Griffin.

EDITORS, GOVERNOR AND CHIEFS AT FAIR

of guimpes and yokes and panels and the various other sartorial furbelows with which woman adorns herself and the bare places in a home.

The stock barns get their quota. Those who know nothing better than the razor-back shoats they have tried to avoid running over as they sped along country roads, wonder how pigs get so plump, and there is no one with sufficient savior faire to keep from marvelling at the broad stretches of back—smooth as a billiard table and almost as wide—with which expert riasers of fine cattle manage to roof their specimens of stock.

But no matter how much knowledge the fair may yearly pour into the gray matter of those who attend it—that's not all. There is the midway to consider. Calling people's attention to the midway at the fair is like calling attention to Babe Ruth when he is at bat on the Polo grounds. He's the main squeeze, and from the viewpoint of the public, the midway at the fair is the main squeeze also.

Fine Midway Offered.

The C. A. Wortham shows have charge of the people's amusement this year and they are doing the job right well. In addition to the things they have brought along for barkers to bark about, the riding devices are as popular as they have ever been, and as soon as the sun gets ready to set itself behind the western hills, the crowd starts milling and tickling noses with feather dusters up and down the slopes of the park which hold the attractions.

The fat lady, who has gained weight to such an extent during all the years of her existence that she now tips the beam at 615 pounds, sits—she can scarcely stand at all—in ponderous antithesis to the human skeleton. The giant—not from Cardiff this time—has it over the midgets like a Liberty dollar over a Canadian dime, and up and down the extent of Joyland, or whatever foolish name it is they call it, there are things just as peculiar and unbelievable. There is where the kids shine. You can't make a 10-year-old show much enthusiasm over an exhibit of boll weevils in their swaddling clothes, but put him on the midway, in a flock of freaks, and watch him go.

The automobile races are better than usual this year. Witness to which fact is that two records were broken Friday afternoon while Wedemeyer's band played "Haven't We Acquired Amusement?" and other rabid selections. There is a jazz orchestra in the automobile building, to harmonize with the motors, so they won't skip while being demonstrated, and there is a jazzier band—equipped with a saxophone and a tremulous trombone—that holds forth on the dance pavilion behind the grandstand.

All this music, in addition to the fine array that toots it up on the carryalls and carousals.

WORKING A HARDSHIP.

A news story in this issue of The Constitution gives an account of action that has been taken to collect back taxes, covering several years, from the Berry Schools of Rome.

From the purely legal standpoint the state may have the right, as well as the power, to collect this money; but for it to exercise that right and power would put Georgia in the attitude of resorting to a technicality of the law as a means of imposing a grave hardship upon one of the most deserving institutions in the state for the sake of a few dollars.

For twenty years the Berry schools have been ministering to the physical as well as to the moral, spiritual, educational and industrial needs of worthy mountain boys and girls of this section.

The institution, struggling through countless vicissitudes, has rendered wonderful service, providing educational facilities for needy boys and girls of the south—through whose veins courses the purest Anglo-Saxon blood to be found on this continent.

Necessarily it is not and never has been self-sustaining.

While entrants who are able to pay are charged a nominal tuition fee, the Berry Schools organization does not recognize poverty as a barrier to education, and no applicant has ever been turned away on account of inability to pay—although only this year something like 400 have been recorded on the "waiting list" because the institution has reached the limit of its capacity and resources, and is unable to take them in.

It has no permanent endowment fund, but is supported year by year by personal contributions; and it is solely by that means that it has been developed from a one-room log cabin to its present proportions.

Today it is providing homes and education and wholesome, enlightened Christian atmosphere for approximately 700 pupils and students—for the most part Georgians—ranging in age from early childhood to middle life.

For the most part, this money has been contributed by men and women from outside of Georgia—benevolent men and women of the north, east and west, who have been made acquainted with the educational plight and the spiritual needs of the mountain folk of the south; whose hearts have been touched in their behalf, and who have felt that in aiding this institution they were helping humanity and contributing to the human welfare of their country.

From the people of Georgia the Berry Schools have received little but praise, comparatively speaking. It is certainly as little as the state can do to invite and encourage outside contributions with the assurance that they will not be taxed.

For the state now to compel the institution to pay taxes—especially taxes accruing through a long period of years, during which it was never called upon even to make assessment returns—would not only cripple it financially, but savor of a spirit of ingratitude and lack of appreciation that would manifestly work great hardship on the school and hurt its standing with its non-resident contributing friends, who are willing to give for the benefit of the deserving people of the mountains, but not to enrich the state treasury.

According to the letter of the 1918 educational-endowment exemption law, it may be that the Berry institution is liable to taxation; but certainly that was not the intent of the legislature, nor is it the spirit of the law.

If the Berry plant is subject to taxation, while the various splendid denominational and privately endowed educational institutions in the state are exempt, the fact is due obviously to a technical oversight, and it no doubt will be corrected at the earliest opportunity!

The state taxation authorities can well afford, now that the point has been raised, to let this matter rest in abeyance, at least until after the general assembly is given an opportunity to pass on the matter next summer.

Surely the state of Georgia can not afford to put itself in the attitude of crippling such a splendid institution as the Berry Schools, nor of impeding in any measure the magnificent work it is doing for poor and deserving boys and girls of the mountains.

THE TOLLS QUESTION.

The administration is still on tender hooks regarding the Panama canal tolls question.

The senate has passed a bill exempting from tolls all coastwise ships of American registry passing through the canal.

While the bill is in perfect accord with a plank in the platform upon which President Harding was elected, and regardless of the fact that Presidential Candidate Harding, in his speech of acceptance, explicitly endorsed that plank, the president, nevertheless, let congress know that he regarded action on the matter at this time as undesirable.

He took the position that, since Great Britain has formally protested against the enactment of such legislation on the grounds that it is violative of her rights under the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, agitation of the tolls exemption question, and especially affirmative action upon it, would embarrass the administration and probably interfere seriously with the workings of the international armaments limitation conference soon to meet in Washington.

The president has not said so in so many words, but undoubtedly his candid opinion was expressed by his recent opponent at the polls, Ex-Governor Cox, of Ohio, in a message to the democratic club of southern California, in which the Ohio statesman said—

> "The spectacle of regarding the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as a scrap of paper, just as we begin conference with a group of nations on disarmament, is a commentary on the behavior of a country whose life and traditions have been above reproach."

Had President Harding not publicly approved the free tolls plank in the republican platform he would have been in position to openly oppose congressional action in keeping with it; in which event he undoubtedly would have been able to forestall what has been done by the senate.

His position would have been analogous to that of President Wilson shortly after he took office.

The democratic platform of 1912 contained a free tolls plank, but Mr. Wilson never endorsed it. He made no reference to it one way or another during his campaign, and immediately following his induction into office he came out openly against it, and brought congress to his view of the question.

It is to be hoped that action by the house upon this bill may be deferred, at any rate, until after the international conference adjourns; and that it will then be killed; for what Governor Cox said about the principle involved in the proposed legislation is right.

A sacred treaty should not be made a "scrap of paper" by this country.

"DINNER BELL TIME."

If we needed one word of cheer for harvest time in Georgia we would have it in this appetizing paragraph from The Commerce (Ga.) News—

> "It's digging potato time, 'possum hunting time, roast beef time, rabbit time, spare-ribs time; yes, thank goodness, it's chitterling time. Ring the bell, blow the horn. Put the big pot in the little'un. Ring the bell. Say grace. Go to it!"

That's a real, home-like call to happiness! While setting the table and crowding it with Plenty, it also says the grace! It's breakfast, dinner and supper bell time, all together, in the hearty, old home places, and it's high time for the gloom-folks to get back home, where there's so much of everything good there is no danger that any will be denied.

Even if they didn't contribute their rightfully expected share in working for the prosperity, there'll be enough to pass around!

And this gives hope and heart, not only for the present, but for the great, good things another year will have for us.

Another year of work to keep the home-markets well supplied; to put more money in circulation, and to make Georgia the abiding country of good times.

Even if the "October wine" is all in the air, the dry agents are well equipped with airplanes.

Prosperity has established its headquarters at the Southeastern fair.

No "Sham Battle" Then!

That reminiscent confederate veteran, Colonel John E. Finch, of The Greensboro Herald-Journal, writes:

"A few days ago five thousand marines had a sham battle on the same battlefield in the Wilderness, between Orange Court house and Fredericksburg, Va., that Lee's army and Grant's army had a fight on in 1864. It wasn't no sham battle—the one in 1864. General Longstreet was wounded in that fight. General "Stonewall" Jackson was killed near there. The south lost some of the best generals it had in that neighborhood. The road running through the Wilderness in 1864 was a plank road. Very little artillery was used in the fight at the Wilderness, and that was placed on that plank road. The Wilderness at that time was a perfect hog mire. We suppose it has been drained since that time if not it was a mighty poor place for a sham battle!"

Dreams of Yesterday.

Where the sunset glory lingered in the Autumn's crimson glow,
With a glance she swept the meadows, where the shadows deeper grow,
For she did not see the shadows, nor the phantoms there at play,
For her busy soul was dreaming all her dreams of yesterday.

Brow of girlhood, once so tender, now all marked with lines of care,
Hand of Time, forever busy, left his print of sorrows there;
Auburn hair, a woman's glory, now bestrewn with threads of gray,
While she dreamed in silent wonder all her dreams of yesterday.

Once again she heard the whisper of a lover at her side,
Once again she felt the blushes maiden shyness could not hide;
Then she closed her eyes in silence, like one bowing down to pray,
Blessing Fate for leaving still her sacred dreams of yesterday.

Mingled with life's sweetest music, woven as a silver string,
Comes an echo, soft and tender, in the lisp of one sweet thing:
And the Mother eyes grow pensive, as they wander far away,
Seeing yet the baby laughter in her dreams of yesterday.

Federal Reserve System Is Strongly Defended By Atlanta Attorney

BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Washington, October 14.—(Special.)—Members of congress, and federal officials irrespective of party, are highly commending a spirited defense of the federal reserve system, appearing in pamphlet, written by Hollins N. Randolph, of Atlanta, and extensively circulated in Washington this week.

Mr Randolph is an attorney for the federal reserve board, but his "reply to the critics"—of which, unfortunately, the south has contributed the major portion—is a broadvisioned, unanswerable analysis of the law and administration, told with such a simple force that it meets every objection raised by the enemies of the system, whether actuated by political or other motives.

The article by Mr. Randolph is too long for entire publication here, but I know a review of it, touching the salient features, will be interesting, for if the south, in the trying days from which it is emerging, ever felt strong arm of federal aid in any particular it has in the benefits accruing to it through the agency of the federal reserve system, and its correlative agency, the War Finance corporation.

* * * *

Board Does Not Dictate to Banks.

It has been freely charged that that federal reserve board operates and gives directions to the federal reserve banks, as if the members of the board were the directors of the banks.

This is wholly a wrong idea, because the federal reserve board, under the law, has no more control over the federal reserve banks than the comptroller of the currency has over the national banks.

This particular criticism is dealt with by Mr. Randolph strongly and convincingly.

Another criticism almost in universal circulation is that during 1920 the federal reserve board adopted the policy of contracting credits. He takes the position in the article that if they did adopt any such policy the results of the operations of the banks would reflect such policy. He proceeded to set out the figures which unmistakably show that the loans and discounts of the federal reserve banks increased during that time very nearly one billion dollars. The article proceeds on the idea that the figures themselves expose completely the fallacy of the criticism.

Another criticism almost universally made, and particularly in the south, also the west, is that the federal reserve board, during the same time, adopted the policy of withholding credits to the agricultural and live stock industries.

Again, however, if the board adopted any such policy, or the federal reserve banks adopted any such policy, the same necessarily would be reflected in the figures showing the actual results.

To show how ridiculous that charge is, the figures show that on January 31, 1920, the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta held agricultural and live stock paper in the sum of only $693,000, whereas, on July 1, 1921, loans of this character had expanded in the Atlanta bank to the amount of $14,926,000. I give the figures for the whole system, and commencing with January, 1920, the loans of this character amounted to $56,905,000, whereas on June 30, 1921, they amounted to $234,132,000.

* * * *

Meeting Criticisms Of Board's Earnings.

Another criticism very widely circulated is to the effect that the federal reserve banks showed earnings in 1920 of 158.4 per cent. Mr. Randolph shows in the article that these earnings were derived from the use of the reserve deposits which the member banks have to carry with the federal reserve banks, and from the use of federal reserve notes (furnished free by the government) not covered by gold.

The sum and substance of it is that after taking all of their resources into account, the federal reserve banks in 1920 earned only 2.9 per cent. This is not fiction, but it is a fact.

The critics of the federal reserve banks have proceeded on the idea that the only funds they had available for loans was capital stock. But, as a matter of fact, the member banks are required to carry their reserves with the federal reserve banks, as much so as they are required by the same law to subscribe to the capital stock of the federal reserve banks.

In other words, under the law, the member banks have no more control over the reserves which they have to carry than they have over the sums which they have to contribute by way of capital stock.

Also, the government itself is the principal partner in this banking enterprise, because during 1920 it furnished the free use of $1,800,000,000 of federal reserve notes, to the federal reserve banks.

The federal reserve act authorizes the federal reserve board to impose a tax on these notes, but the federal reserve board has never imposed such tax, because, under the federal reserve act all the earnings above 6 per cent to the stockholders (the member banks) and 10 per cent for the surplus fund, goes to the United States government anyway.

Any one can see that it would be a perfectly useless piece of work for the federal reserve board to direct the excess earnings into the treasury by way of tax, because, under the federal reserve act, these earnings go into the treasury anyway.

* * * *

That "Progressive" Interest Rate.

Another very severe criticism against the federal reserve is what is known as the "progressive" interest rate, imposed in 1920. This is also a very technical matter interesting for the most part to bankers only.

The federal reserve act requires all of the federal reserve banks to treat all of the member banks alike in the matter of loans, but experience has demonstrated that banks are like individuals—some of them are constant borrowers, while others do not borrow at all. Some of them try to borrow more than their share, and some practical method had to be devised, says Mr. Randolph, so that the directors of the federal reserve banks would and could, in fact, treat all the member banks alike.

One can see, for instance, that if one-half of the members of any particular federal reserve bank should get to the "trough" first and borrow all of the loanable funds of that particular bank before the other members came forward and demanded their share of the loanable funds, there would be nothing to lend to the other one-half of the members. To prevent that, the "progressive" interest rate was devised, and its object was to prevent any one bank or group of banks from getting more than its ratable share through the imposition of an increasing rate on the excess above its share.

* * * *

Did Not Contract Issuance of Currency.

Still another criticism in general circulation is to the effect that during the period the federal reserve board deliberately contracted the issues of currency in the country.

If that charge was true, such a policy would necessarily be reflected in the figures. Mr. Randolph, therefore, ascertained the figures and they show that the opposite policy was adopted, if any policy on currency issues was adopted.

The last criticism considered in the Randolph booklet is also very important. It is freely stated that the federal reserve banks instructed their member banks to tell their customers that they must pay up their loans, so that they, member banks, in turn could pay the federal reserve banks.

Not a single one of the federal reserve banks adopted any such policy, he says. The fact was that many of the member banks were extended at the time and in order to get their loans paid they "passed the buck" to the federal reserve bank.

The federal reserve banks, however, were blissfully ignorant that many of the member banks were telling their customers that they must pay their loans, giving as a reason that the federal reserve banks were calling their loans.

It must be understood that the federal reserve banks do not deal directly with the public. They deal only with other banks, and never come in contact with the public. Hence it was that the federal reserve banks did not know that many of the member banks were adopting this plan to get their own loans in.

The customer, thus dealt with, himself not coming in contact with the federal reserve bank, naturally enough took as truth the statement made to him by the officers of his own bank, and no doubt many times went away very much put out with the federal reserve bank.

One can see at once that there could not have been any truth in any such statement, because, in the first part of the article, the writer shows that during the time all of the federal reserve banks extended their loans nearly one billion dollars.

In other words, it would have been a perfectly needless performance for the federal reserve banks to tell their member banks that they must tell their customers to pay up so that they (the member banks) could pay the federal reserve banks, and yet at the same time very greatly extend the amount of credits to the member banks in the aggregate.

* * * *

Why the Public Is Sometimes Misled.

In general, it may be said that one of the principal causes for prevailing discontent is due to the fact that under the federal reserve act the federal reserve banks cannot come directly in contact with the public.

Of course, any member of the public could, if he were so inclined, go any day to his federal reserve bank, or write to one of its officers, and obtain at first hand information about the system. But people are too busy with their own affairs to do that. Most of them, therefore, get their information about the federal reserve system indirectly, and it is not to be wondered at that the vast majority of the public have an honest misconception of the workings of the system.

We all know perfectly well, none the less, that error will go for truth until it is corrected.

Mr. Randolph has performed a real service in correcting the errors, and doing so in a spirit of consideration and fairness.

Six Months' Change Vindicates Wilson

Editor Constitution: Having been a close reader of Frank H. Simonds' syndicated articles, appearing in your columns for years—even a student of them—I take the liberty of calling your attention to proof of a great change that has evidently taken place in Mr. Simonds' viewpoint since Mr. Harding took the helm at Washington—as evidenced in his last article.

Only a few days after Mr. Harding's inauguration Mr. Simonds made the statement, substantially, that the civilized world was practically at Mr. Harding's feet, that Europe would have to wait upon the pleasure of Washington in practically all things. . . . This was only a few days, I believe, before the advance of the French troops into the Ruhr, or some such momentous event.

A number of other vital happenings having intervened since that time.

The second sentence in Mr. Simonds' article of yesterday reads:

"At last it is beginning to be appreciated that so far from dictating the terms of a new international agreement to a willing and waiting world, the Washington conference and the American representation therein are going to face all the old difficulties of Paris plus those which our attitude since Paris has raised."

Now the question arises, if the world was at our feet in March, why such great difficulties in November?

Is it beginning to dawn upon the minds of the American egotists who thought the world would remain at our feet that there were real difficulties at Paris which our then president met in a more practical manner than he was given credit for, and that by dishonoring him and ourselves we have raised up new problems to plague us?

Whether the Washington conference is a harbinger of the "parliament of man, the federation of the world" or not, it is good to see this change in the attitude of Mr. Simonds, whose ideal has evidently been more in keeping with the old schools of Michaevelli and Lord Bacon diplomacy.

IDLE FREIGHT CAR TOTALS DECREASE

Washington, October 14.—Idle freight cars on American railroads numbered 375,370 on October 1. Thirty-nine thousand three hundred twenty-eight less than on September 23, and materially less than on any recent reporting date, according to a report today by the Association of Railway Executives. Of the total surplus cars, 202,950 were in need of repairs.

The Best Way to Handle City's Traffic Congestion

Editor Constitution: The proposal to engage a traffic expert to instruct our police force in traffic regulation occurs to me as a needless expense and a waste of the taxpayers' money. The five hundred dollars suggested as the expert's fee would buy two motorcycles and even two such machines painted red, without officers, and standing alongside the highways would exert a far greater effect on traffic than the same amount of money spent for advice.

The traffic conditions of Atlanta can be divided into two phases—the downtown congestion phase and the reckless driving phase in the outlying districts. While the two phases are related to some extent, they require different remedies. Considering the downtown congestion first: We have only three bridges to carry the north and south traffic (not counting Washington street viaduct, which is not accessible at present). The Whitehall viaduct and Forsyth viaduct are really the two that carry the greatest load, because Broad street does not go anywhere directly and all Broad street traffic pours either into Whitehall or Peachtree or Forsyth streets. Peachtree and Whitehall streets are the main and almost the only arteries for north and south traffic in this great city; they simply cannot accommodate the traffic in rush hours. Broad street bridge is the oldest in Atlatna and when it was built, Broad street no doubt looked as long as the Roswell road does now. The Forsyth bridge was built in 1893, the Whitehall viaduct in 1901, and the Courtland viaduct in 1906. Since the Whitehall viaduct was built the population of Atlanta has increased from 90,000 to 250,000, and the traffic north and south has increased at least ten times—just think of the increase in number of street cars, to say nothing of autos; and twenty years ago not an automobile was running here.

While the Washington street viaduct was built fifteen years ago, it has never carried the traffic it could easily accommodate on account of its approaches, particularly Courtland street. The only cure, and there is only one in my opinion, is at least three more arteries to relieve Whitehall-Peachtree. Now, the Spring street bridge and the paving of Spring to Peachtree will supply one artery that will relieve congestion wonderfully. The paving of Courtland street will supply another and Piedmont when paved will supply the third artery. There is already an underpass under the railroads on Piedmont avenue. The expense to the city will be small for the paving of Courtland and Piedmont, as this could be done under the ten-year plan. It is not necessary to do any regrading on either of these streets as automobiles travel uphill as well as down, a smooth pavement is all that is needed to draw this traffic. The cross-town blocks between these arteries should be paved so as to make all accessible, and when this is done the congestion will disappear. Bridges on Pryor and Central avenue would also help wonderfully and should be built. When these arteries are paved, they will at once become boulevards and will carry almost all the auto traffic. Then the street cars can enjoy the center of town and better serve their numerous patrons.

Another thing—if the Marietta interurban cars were turned into Fairlee or Cone instead of Forsyth, it would expedite traffic on Forsyth street. Also if the Decatur, Ga., cars were turned into Ivy instead of Pryor it would help traffic on Pryor street. Perhaps an underpass for street cars at Central avenue or Pryor street might be feasible. It certainly would help to spread out the cars going north and south, instead of having every car go into town and cross our overloaded bridges.

The matter of traffic congestion is a matter for our planning commission, for it is a matter of highways. It would be well to have a building line established on Courtland and Piedmont before they are paved, with a view to widening them in future. When this is done it will be necessary to provide another route to West End; perhaps this could be done via Washington street and Georgia avenue.

Now for the reckless traffic. There is just one thing that will stop reckless driving and that is certain punishment for the driver. The motorcycle officer in motion or at rest exerts the most powerful influence on the highways and an increase in this department is indispensable, but as it is impossible to have enough motorcycle officers to be everywhere, at once, I think if a vigilance committee of automobile owners was formed it would have a powerful effect. Suppose 200 owners with the insignia V. C. in red on their windshields would agree to report all cases of reckless driving observed by them. Let them take the number of the car fill in number on a printed postcard and mail to the police. Let such report cards be handeld by special officers assigned for this work; their duty to be the making of cases and serving subpoenas on receipt of postcards. Perhaps for the first offense, the reporting member of the V. C. need not go to court, and in case the defendant pleaded not guilty, the experience would prove a salutary warning to him. The report cards should be filed by name and by number, and in case the same offender is reported the second time, the special officers would produce the evidence that might be necessary to convict. It would not be requisite to arm the V. C. and they would have no police powers, their duty to be reporting violations only. If such a committee was formed, the road hog and the speed fiend would be mighty careful before he rushed headlong past the car of a possible member of the V. C. The insignia on the windshield is all important as they would be seen almost everywhere day or night, and like the policeman in uniform or the motorcycle officer, their mere presence would exert a powerful influence for law and order.

An Excellent Suggestion From a Good Citizen

Editor Constitution: Much has been said of our city's need of central parks.

Atlanta affords no near-in resting place for either her own citizens or visitors who want an hour's rest or leisure unless they go to a store or the movies. We have magnificent suburban parks, but of near-in resting places we are sadly wanting.

Richmond, Virginia's capital, has its capitol building located much the same as ours and the grounds more greatly and generally enjoyed as a place of rest and recreation. Why not get the state to grant the use of our capitol grounds for a city park?

Let the city provide a beautiful white way cluster of lamps for each corner of the lawn and seats for people, so on a hot afternoon or evening citizens may have an open place to rest and enjoy the relaxation so needed?

Also let us have the white way extended up Mitchell and Hunter streets to and by the capitol grounds. There is no sections of our city where so many churches are grouped as about our capitol building—and so near also to the Auditorium.

Such a measure would add much to the beauty and dignity of both our city and the capitol.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. M'INTYRE

New York, October 14.—Fifth avenue sparkles these crisp mornings with autumn gaity. The shops are alluring in their fall display. The cognoscanti, home from London and Paris, the college boys, the girls who have come east to be finished, the trippers and the beau monds—the procession is endless. The smartest women in the newest fashions are on display.

A girl swathed in black with sleeves that flared at the wrist and a tight fitting toque from which black birds of paradise plumes sprouted magnificently sat at breakfast on a hotel portico. A rope of pearls gleamed white at her throat. She was the spirit of the avenue! A spirit of rich display.

Across the way a public fountain rose and fell in the gay sunshine. The stucco benches of the esplanade were filled with a confusion of people—the real and the spurious. Horsey men in red vests and puttees. Dilettantes talking ponderously about non-essentials. Self-conscious debs posing, bowing and stopping to spill empty, gaudy social phrases. Only occasionally the dowdy note—the whining beggar.

The very freedom and grandeur of Fifth avenue seem to invite imposture. The Tenth avenue clerk gets one look at the thoroughfare and becomes a revolte. He scrimps for a suit of modish cut, a cane and spats and not even the avenue can tell him from its very own.

The great mansions are unboarded now. Hothouse flowers bloom in the window boxes. Smart pony drawn equippages carry children born to the purple merrily to the park in charge of those uniformed and aristocratic looking nursemaids. In the millionaire clubs one may see the great open hearths crackling with burning logs.

It is all life carried somewhat to ludicrous extremes. It represents a jaded people seeking to break the shackles of monotony. And always failing. At the Carnegie home I turned back. A father, mother and brood of children with lunch baskets had seeped over from the East Side to picnic in the park. Up at a window in a castle sat a pale-faced old man. He was wistfully watching the happy family out of sight.

Everybody in New York seems to delight in telling lies about their favorite cafes. Superb liars, they are, too, when they touch upon this subject. My ears have been warmed with the tales of this place and that place and always they prove to be duds. The other night a man who knows his Broadway and sits in at all the first nights told me of a miniature bit of Paris tucked away in Catherine street. It had a violinist that would some day startle the world. The women patrons were devastatingly gorgeous. It had cosmopolitanism blended with hauteur, jois de vivre—and the soul of a Vienness waltz. Its desserts plumbed new gastrinomical depths. In short—it was some place. I invited a party of six. It was terrible. Never again.

Cosmo Hamilton and Augustus Thomas had dinner together the other night before going to the theater. When the check arrived neither grabbed for it. As a matter of fact each had discovered himself broke and was hoping not to be betrayed. Finally came the confession. Hurried dressing and wallets left on dressing tables. They didn't know the restaurant manager. Hamilton suddenly got a brain wave. He would ask the first man passing the table to pay the check, explaining the situation. The first man did gladly, which shows New York is not so stony-hearted as pictured.

Speaking of cafes and eating I'd like to go some place in New York where after quite a wait for dinner someone would suddenly ring an old-fashioned dinner bell. Even the old-fashioned cocktail hasn't the ability to whip the appetite like a lusty, red corpuscled dinner bell.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

KNOWLEDGE PICKED UP.

I quote two passages from a letter from a girl whose education has been thorough in one direction and sadly neglected in another:

". . . . . I go through agonies for four days and am partly disabled for ten days . . . . Mother tells me there is nothing to be done, that God intended women to suffer that way and that it is perfectly natural . . . but I know my suffering is not natural because of twenty girls in my high school class (one has graduated) only two of us suffered in that way . . . . and mother tells me that if a girl even walks across the floor in her bare feet, much less ventures to bathe during menstruation, she is sure to take cold and develop tuberculosis . . . . .

". . . . . Mother won't tell me anything . . . . she says she can't talk about such things and that I will find out for myself in time, at least as much as I should know. All I have ever learned is from the girls at school talking, but I won't be able to pick up anything that way any more. I am 19 and I think I am old enough to know something . . . . "

If God intended that all women should suffer in the way this young woman describes, it is a singular thing that in these wicked modern times aboue nine-tenths of the women escape God's wrath in that respect. The reason that 18 out of 20 young women do not suffer is that they are getting more exercise and wearing less injurious clothing nowadays. The delicate, fainting type, with her hideous wasp waist and her prodigious fear of cold, wet, drafts, night air and such bugaboos, is only a memory now, and the girl of today is ashamed to faint even when she sprains an ankle or barks a shin. Corsets have become not only a superfluity, but to a considerable extent passe, and the fashionable figure now is corsetless, or as good an imitation thereof as the poorly trained woman can achieve.

The policy of the mother as described by this particular girl is a weak one and a wicked one. The mother attempts to conceal her incompetence by passing the buck to God. That is not the right conception of God for a mother to teach her own danghter. Then, too, the mother in this instance plays the deplorable role of Madame Evasion, when her own daughter, her own flesh and blood, comes to her for the instruction and knowledge to which the girl is certainly entitled. Mother says "You will find out all you ought to know in due time." That is not a motherly thing to say. The girl tells us how she is finding out—she is "picking up" information by listening to the idle talk of other girls. Possibly she may learn a little of the truth in that way, but as a rule the things a girl learns in that way are not true at all, but hideously false; she "picks up" tainted information which can only do her harm.

Now I understand how very, very difficult it must be for a mother to teach her daughters the sacred truth about life. I realize that this is a task for which only a few mothers are at present fitted. But any mother can at least take her daughter into her own confidence and if incapable of instructing the child, then frankly telling her so and advising her to ask a woman physician to enlighten her. And few mothers are so utterly incompetent that they cannot learn, by a little study of books especially written for the purpose, how to tell a daughter the story of life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Physic Habit.

What can be given a three-weeks-old baby for constipation that will not harm it? (Mrs. B. E. N.)

Answer—Nothing that I know of. It is a serious matter to give an infant so young any kind of physic or laxative—resort to such things in early infancy not only establishes the constipated habit, but seriously upsets the fine functional adjustment of the whole digestive process.

Foods and Acne.

Please tell me what foods a person with blackheads and pimples should not eat. (D. E. K.)

Answer—I know none. There was an old theory that fats and "rich" foods in general were objectionable, but there is little foundation for restricting the diet. Young persons with acne need fats and rich foods. Send a stamped, addressed envelope and suggestions will be mailed you.

COURT WILL DECIDE OWNERSHIP OF FUND

By agreement of counsel Friday Judge John T. Pendleton will hear the controversy between the Atlanta League of Women Voters and the former city executive committee under whose ruling the women were charged $1 each for voting in the 1919 city primary. Three thousand seven hundred and ninety-six dollars is involved in the court action, and the case will be heard sometime next week.

It is claimed that this amount was paid to Lucien Harris, tax collector, at that time, and as the women and the city executive committee both claimed the money, the tax collector asked the court to take charge of it, as he was merely holding it in his official capacity and did not want to be liable for it personally. Judge W. D. Ellis ordered the money paid Arnold Broyles, clerk of the court, until the case was settled.

Ernest Buchanan, chairman of the executive committee, and the law firms of Harwell, Fairman & Barrett and Frank A. Hooper will represent the committee, and James L. Anderson and C. W. Hager will represent the women.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TODAY FOR HEROES

Memorial services will be held over twenty-three coffins containing bodies of southern heroes who died in France, when they arrive at the Terminal station Saturday morning at 8:15 o'clock. An army chaplain will officiate and will be aided by representatives of local patriotic organizations.

Among the bodies to arrive is expected to be that of Private Lonnie Cook, of Fulton county, who will be the twenty-ninth Fulton county boy who died in France during the world war to be returned to Atlanta. As this is probably the last contingent of southern dead who will arrive in Atlanta for some time, a large representation of local citizens are expected to attend the services.

CHIEFS TO GATHER IN SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Cal., was awarded the 1922 meeting at the closing business session here in Taft hall of the 19th annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, after a spirited struggle with Richmond, Va.

The other elections resulted in naming Chief Frank G. Reynolds, of Augusta, Ga., president; Chief Charles W. Ringer, of Minneapolis, Minn., first vice president, and Chief W. H. Bywater, of Salt Lake City, Utah, second vice president. The election of the first two officers was assured before Friday's meeting, according to the usual proceedure of the association in advancing the second vice president to the first vice presidency, and the latter to the presidency.

The election of Chief Bywater, however, was slated to be contested by Chief James Armstrong, of Kingston, Ont., Canada. But immediately following the nomination of Chief Bywater by Chief William Tyson, of Dupont, Va., a representative of Chief Armstrong announced that the latter would not be a candidate for the office of second vice president now, but will make a bid for the place in 1922 at San Francisco. Then Chief Armstrong thanked the convention for the consideration shown him and others from Canada and hurried to his train.

Will Meet in San Francisco.

The convention adjourned to meet in San Francisco in 1922 the exact date to be set later. After adjournment, President Reynolds called a meeting of the officers of the association in the Ansley hotel and there named Chief Samuel B. Boyd, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Chief E. P. Murphy, of Buffalo, N. Y., on the executive committee. The other member is August Gerstung, of Elizabeth, N. J., who was named at the 1920 convention. Samuel Hunter, of Springfield, Ohio, was named by the president as chairman of the exhibit committee for the next convention. Chief Mulcahy, of Yonkers, N. Y., secretary, and Chief Carter, of Camden, N. J., treasurer, were both re-elected.

The officers also discussed the date of the coming convention, but nothing definite was reached, except that the San Francisco chief will have the choice of the date, dependent however on the approval of the officers.

The major portions of the delegates and their ladies ate dinner at the Auditorium following the session and then journeyed out to the Southeastern fair.

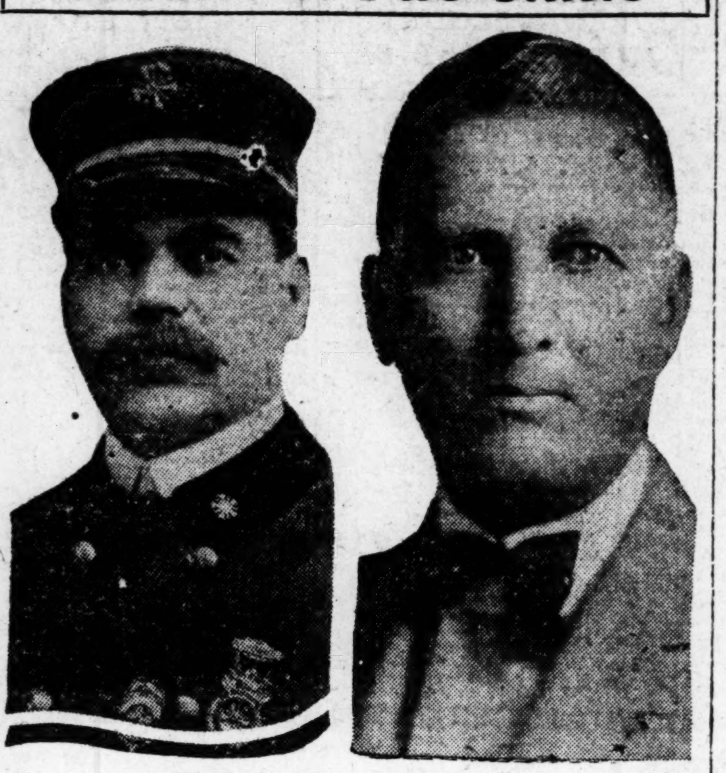
A resolution expressing appreciation to the local entertainment committee for the good time shown the delegates was passed before the convention adjourned, and a rising vote of thanks given to Chief Cody, of Atlanta, was also given.

Ladies Give Thanks.

The ladies of the chiefs also issued a statement of appreciation and after relating the varied entertainments given said: "Nothing like this have we ever seen before. We cannot mention all the ladies by name, but we specially wish to mention Mrs. Cody, Mrs. Boykin, Mrs. Price-Smith, Mrs. Goodhart and Mrs. Wing. We wish them to convey to their associates for us our heartiest thanks and appreciation."

Most of the delegates left Atlanta for their homes Friday night. The largest delegation left the Terminal station Friday night at 9:40 o'clock for Savannah, where they will take a vessel to New York. Accompanying that delegation, which is composed of about 150 chiefs, was a delegation of southern chiefs headed by Chief Reynolds, of Augusta. A varied entertainment program has been prepared for the delegation by Chief John H. Monroe, of Savannah.

Leaders of Fire Chiefs



At the left is shown Chief Frank G. Reynolds, of Augusta, Ga., who was unanimously elected president of the International Association of Fire Engineers at the last session of the 1921 convention Friday morning, in Taft hall. To the right is shown Chief C. W. Ringer, of Minneapolis, Minn., who was unanimously elected first vice president. Other officers elected were Chief William H. Bywater, of Salt Lake City, Utah, second vice president; James J. Mulcahey, of Yonkers, N. Y., re-elected secretary, and Chief Peter B. Carter, of Camden, N. J., re-elected treasurer. President Reynolds Friday afternoon appointed Chief Sam B. Boyd, of Knoxville, for a three-year term on the association's board of directors, and Chief E. P. Murphy, of Buffalo, N. Y., to serve the remaining one year on the board for Chief Bywater, who was elected second vice president. The other member of the board is Chief August Gertstung, of Elizabeth, N. J.

Pimples Denote Waste Products In The Blood

So Do Blackheads, Boils and Similar Skin Disorders.

The human system is forever striving to get rid of the waste products. It is a life-work which goes on forever. When waste products get in the blood, they cause a lowered vitality. As a result, we become subject to many painful and embarrassing ailments.

When these symptoms appear, Nature is warning us. To throw off the waste products, the blood must be purified. Don't clog your blood. Just clean it out. Nature will do the rest. Pure, rich, red blood nourishes the body and fights off disease.

S. S. S., the standard blood purifier and system builder, is the ideal remedy for skin eruptions. The effect of S. S. S. is to rid the system of the waste products which are causing the trouble. For over 50 years S. S. S. has proven to be of unusual merit. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56-page illustrated booklet, "Facts About the Blood"—free.

LIBERAL RESPONSE MADE BY ALUMNI

ing of the war memorial campaign. Members of the executive committee received the report of the Athens committee at a dinner held in the Y. M. C. A., presided over by Hugh Gordon, city chairman, and served by the co-eds of the university.

Immediately after the report had been made calls for "Uncle Dave" from all over the room brought a response from Chancellor Barrow, who expressed his appreciation of the efforts of Athens people. "It has been a long struggle with poverty over at the university," he said. "You havn't known how hard the struggle has been, what efforts we have made to keep from complaining, the strain we have been under. What you have given you have given to permanency. You have made an investment in permanency. Your money will give good things to the youth of Georgia, and will put an impress for good and for sanity on the people of the state. I don't think you'll ever regret the money you've given. The money I have given to churches and schools has always been the best money I ever spent."

Team workers and guests at the dinner joined in singing the doxology at the conclusion of the dinner, and the meeting broke up with much enthusiasm. The next meeting of the Athens campaign organization will be held on Tuesday, when large increases in the subscriptions will be reported, it is expected.

The executive committee of the campaign today received word from Mrs. W. C. Kellogg, president of the Woman's Club of Augusta, that the women of Augusta have set out to raise $15,000 for the university in addition to the Augusta quota of $70,245. Women of Atlanta have offered to raise $50,000 toward the fund, and the women of Athens have been active in the entire work of raising the city's quota.

Rivalries Forgotten.

Rivalries between the colleges of the state have been forgotten in the war memorial campaign of the University of Georgia. Leaders of religious education have indorsed the effort, and the friends of the denominational colleges all over the stote are strongly back of the university's million-dollar campaign.

Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, president of Mercer university, and Dr. William F. Quillian, president of Wesleyan college, have both strongly indorsed the campaign, and other religious leaders are working for "Old Georgia," where 350 Baptist church members and 260 Methodist church members are being educated.

"The friends and supporters of Mercer university are keenly interested in the campaign," said President Weaver, of Mercer. "The rivalry which exists between the University of Georgia and Mercer university is primarily the rivalry which grows out of the effort of each to furnish the best and most efficient service in the field of higher education. The advancement of one institution will react in the betterment of the other."

President Quillian, of the Methodst college, is equally hopeful for the University of Georgia campaign. "It gives me great pleasure to indorse the war memorial campaign in behalf of the University of Georgia," he said in a message to the alumni committee. "I trust that this effort on the part of the university authorities may be successful in the highest degree."

Plan University Club.

Waycross, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—According to plans now being considered, a University club will be formed in Waycross within the near future. The movement was first started by the alumni of the University of Georgia at their banquet on Tuesday night, and the alumni of other colleges have heartily indorsed the plan. It is understood that the organization will be modeled after similar organizations now existing in many cities in the state, and will include all college graduates.

A committee appointed by E. K. Bennett, chairman of the university campaign committee for Ware county, at the banquet Tuesday night, is now working on plans for the organization, and it is believed that the first dinner held by the new club will be on Thanksgiving day.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS BURNS; TWO IN HOSPITAL

Birmingham, Ala., October 14. Two girls out of the ninety-six in the Alabama state training school for girls at Mount Pinson were in hospitals tonight as the result of the excitement this afternoon when the main building of that institution was burned to the ground. To-night temporary provision was made for taking care of the girls, who are under keeping of the state, by the local chapter of the American Red Cross and the people of Mount Pinson.

The fire was discovered while the girls and several matrons of the institution were eating dinner and is said to have been started by a defective flue. The building, a frame structure, was in a mass of flames within a very few minutes after the alarm was given. Excitement among the girls approached panic. They left the building through every possible exit, many returning to their rooms in an attempt to save part of their clothing.

The flames spread from the building to a small hut which was destroyed and to the woods which were still burning tonight. Two of the girls walked from the burning building to the boys industrial school seven miles away and brought the news of the fire to D. M. Weakly, superintendent, who got together a group of boys and went to the scene. They assisted in putting out the fire in the woods, and in saving the other building of the institution, Jefferson hall.

MINERS IN KANSAS DEFY UNION HEAD

ing stated that it was Howat's desire that the fight be centered entirely in Kansas.

In an effort to forestall action said to be considered by Howat and his associates toward maintaining funds of the suspended organization intact, C. O. Pingry, legal counsel for the international representatives, tonight mailed to all banks in which are the funds notices that checks signed by any member of the suspended organization not be honored.

Possession of the funds of district 14 is expected to bring the first legal clash between the opposing organizations.

Phil S. Callery, general counsel for district 14, has served legal notice on all banks to honor no checks on the district funds unless they are signed by the old board.

Thomas Harvey, secretary-treasurer, under the old regime, was named as financial representative of the international in the order of President Lewis suspending the district. All of the funds of the district are deposited in the name of Harvey, who also holds the check books.

LEADERS ATTEND FUNERAL OF KNOX

Bishop Harding. Before the altar were two immense floral pieces sent by the senate and house, and another from the white house. The only music was the funeral dirge by the organ.

At the conclusion of the services here, the body was taken to a special car leaving here at 12:55 for Philadelphia to be taken by motor to Valley Forge, the country home of Senator Knox. Services will be held there at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the memorial chapel, where interment will take place.

The coffin, of plain black design, with silver side bars, was ornamented with a single wreath of rosebuds, the tribute of President and Mrs. Harding. Several hundred persons were at the station when the train arrived.

The body was taken by motor hearse to Valley Forge, the country home of Senator Knox, where funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

REAPPORTIONMENT BILL IS DEFEATED

Mondell, the republican leader, that although he had opposed an increase in the size of the house at the last session, he favored the Siegel bill, brought criticism from several republicans opposed to the measure, Representatives Cooper, of Wisconsin, and Beedy, of Maine, being particularly emphatic in their remarks.

REDUCED TROLLEY FARES ARE URGED

Backed by the Atlanta Woman's club, the board of education and Parent-Teacher associations, a request for lower street car fares for school children and teachers in the public schools will be presented to the Georgia Railway and Power company Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

The movement was enthusiastically indorsed at a mass meeting held Friday morning at the city hall and a committee appointed to visit President Preston S. Arkwright with the request. The committee was named by Mrs. M. E. Ailes, president of the Forrest Avenue Parent-Teacher association, which started the aitation for cheaper fares, and is as follows: Mayor Key, Mrs. B. M. Boykin, president of the Woman's club; Mrs. Frank McCormack, president of the Parent-Teacher council; Miss Jessie Muse, principal of Girls' High school; Mrs. George Obear, of the Moreland Parent-Teacher association; W. W. Gaines, president of the board of education, and Superintendent W. A. Sutton.

Speeches in favor of lower fares were made by the mayor, Mrs. Boykin, education board members, school principals and representatives of the Parent-Teacher associations.

Practically all the speakers pointed to the reduced fares traction companies of other cities have granted to pupils of the public schools and declared them examples that they do not see how the Georgai Railway and Power company can refuse to follow.

The suggestion to include teachers as well as children was proposed by Mrs. Victor Kreigshaber and Mrs. Obear. The general meeting was the culmination of Parent-Teacher and community gatherings that have been held in all sections of the city to discuss lower fares.

It is the purpose of the board of education, expressed in a resolution adopted at its last meeting, that in the event the power company should not grant a lower fare, to carry the fight to the railroad commission.

SPANISH SUCCESSES GROW IN MOROCCC

Madrid, October 14.—Further official messages from Melilla report that the Spanish troops at 11 o'clock this morning occupied the position of Buguenzain. Between Tauima and the fort, the ground was covered with the bodies of Spanish soldiers who perished in the July massacre. It will require a number of days to clear the ground.

Consolidation of the captured positions is proceeding rapidly without molestation by the enemy, the Morroccans being in full flight. Their columns are returning to the original stations without disturbance of any kind.

CROWDS CHASE ROBBER FOLLOWING HOLDUP

New York, October 14.—A street crowd that witnessed a payroll holdup today in Irving place, pursued the robber to a sub-cellar in Third avenue, where police found him hiding in a barrel with his plunder of $1,138. His victim was Miss Sylvia Cohen, 19, secretary for a mail order house, who had just drawn the money from a bank. She was knocked down in the street on the way to her office.

The prisoner said he was Joseph Stein. The police declared he was out on $10,000 bail on a charge of burglary. He fought savagely in the dark cellar before his captors subdued him.

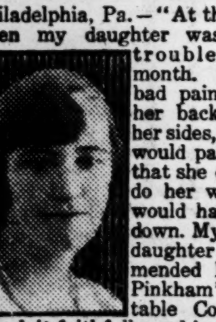
TOO ILL TO WORK

A Mother Tells How Her Daughter Was Made Well Again by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound



Philadelphia, Pa.—"At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had bad pains across her back and in her sides, her back would pain her so that she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. KATIE EICHER, 4034 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions and often with wet feet, young girls contract deranged conditions, and before they are hardly aware of it they develop headaches, backache, irregularities, nervousness and bearing-down pains, all of which are symptoms of woman's ills. Every mother who has a daughter suffering from such symptoms should profit by the experience of Mrs. Eicher and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

MURPHY AVENUE PAVING IS URGED

Citizens of West End are seeking a new route between that section and downtown Atlanta that will be free of railroad accident hazard. Their movement was prompted by the series of accidents that have occurred at the Whitehall street grade crossing, which is now the principal crossing for traffic between the north and south sides.

The paving of Murphy avenue, it is said, would provide the new route and eliminate the necessity of using the Whitehall crossing. Councilman W. C. Jenkins, of the seventh ward, and delegations of citizens representing the seventh and tenth wards, will appear at an early date before the Fulton county commissioners and ask that this be made one of the county's projects next year. Councilman Jenkins will request the city to pave immediately two blocks of the street between McCall's crossing and the plant of the Gulf Refining company, since the company has offered to contribute $2,000 of the cost.

Murphy avenue intersects with Whitehall street north of the rail roads. It also intersects with Gordon street. Gordon street runs in an underpass below the railroad tracks. A short distance from the underpass Gordon intersects with Lee street, the main north and south artery and the one followed in traversing the Whitehall grade crossing. With Murphy avenue paved the underpass route would rapidly become the one most used by motorists seeking safety.

"There are other important reasons why this new thoroughfare should be opened," stated Mr. Jenkins. "It would relieve congestion at Gordon and Lee streets, where it is nearly as bad at Five Points and if Murphy avenue were paved as far as Oakland City through traffic would use it instead of Lee street, and it would shorten the distance to the city about half a mile."

If paved its full distance, according to Mr. Jenkins, Murphy avenue would cannect with Ashby street at the plant of the Hanson Motor company and would shorten the distance to Hapeville about two miles. It would also give No. 7 fire company a direct route to town in case of fire emergency unhampered by possible railroad interferences. He stated also that with the rection of the Spring street iadvuct anothr artery on the south side will be more than ever necessary.

BOXCARS DAMAGED BY FIRE ON FRIDAY

Fire originating from a flying spark from a passing locomotive early Friday morning caused serious damage to ten empty boxcars in the L. & N railroad yards near Murphy's crossing. Firemen were forced to work under disadvantage, as they had to run hose more than 1,000 feet from the nearest fire plug to the scene of the fire. No estimate of the loss could be ascertained.

Arrangements for Woman's Southern Golf Tournament

Plans and arrangements for the opening play of the Woman's Southern Golf association championship tournament, which begins over the East Lake course of the Atlanta Athletic club, Monday, are now complete.

A meeting of the tournament committee was held at the home of Mrs. T. H. Latham Thursday evening. Mrs. Dozier Lowndes, president, presided. Other members of the committee present were Mrs. Tom Paine and Mrs. George Harrington, with the assistance of Milton Dargan, Jr., who will act as referee during the contest.

Arrangements for automobiles to be at the hotels every morning are in the hands of a committee under Mrs. Jessie Draper and Mrs. Milton Dargan, Jr.

Luncheons will be served at any hour at the clubhouse, the management having made provision for a delicious hot meal at 75 cents.

The trophies are perhaps the most beautiful ever given in any woman's tournament, and are on display today at Davis & Freeman, jewelers, at 47 Whitehall street.

The list of entries covers a grater area than ever before, players are en route here from Texas, South Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Louisiana, Georgia, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Atlanta contingent will be the largest ever entered in any local event, there being flights for players in all classes and the greatest success is expected on this, the tenth anniversary, of the association, which was organized in Atlanta with the assistance of the Atlanta Athletic club that is giving its every help in this event.

Now a Folly to Have Corns

Millions of People Know an Easy Way to End Them—Quick and Sure

FOLKS all about you now treat corns in this scientific way. That's why corns are becoming so uncommon. At the first corn pain they apply Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster—for sale at all druggists'. The pain stops instantly. Soon the whole corn gently loosens and comes out.

This is not like old ways, harsh and crude. It is the modern method, put out by a laboratory of world-wide repute.

For millions of people it has solved the corn problem. It will bring you freedom—and forever—when you know it. For your own sake, find this out tonight.

Federation Board Is Given Address On Child Welfare

The executive board of the City Federation of Women's Clubs met yesterday with the president, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Sr., at her residence, 611 Peachtree street, and there was a full attendance and a program full of interest.

Reports from the chairmen of the standing committees revealed the very active work being done in practically every line of federated club activity, and resolutions were discussed and voted upon, which will be submitted to the general meeting of the federation Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the chamber of commerce.

A forceful address was made by Burr Blackburn, chairman of the state welfare board, who gave illuminating facts and figures about the amount of activity for child welfare in Georgia. With the aid of maps, he pointed out the counties in which the most intelligent work is being done for the education and health of children, and others in which there is no organized work and nothing is being done.

He showed what would be the value of a children's code commission, and wished the club women as great success in finally securing the necessary legislation for it as they had the past summer in securing support of the welfare board.

Mrs. Thornton urged upon all the members of the executive board that they co-operate in securing a full attendance on Monday for the general meeting of the city federation at the chamber of commerce at 3 o'clock.

SEARCHLIGHT TO END DAILY PUBLICATION

The Searchlight, a local publication, announced Friday that it would after Sunday return to its status as a weekly publication. It has for two weeks past been issuing daily. City Councilman J. O. Wood is editor.

Imperial Wizard Simmons, of the Ku Klux Klan, has stated that The Searchlight is not the official organ of his order, although the paper had for months carried a great deal of klan propaganda. It was announced about three weeks ago that Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, of the propagation department of the klan, had sold her interest in the publication to Mr. Wood.

Streamers of white satin ribbon were showered with swansonia and reached to the place of each guest, which was marked by hand-painted place cards, and white baskets holding pink mints and bon bons. At either end of the table were slender silver vaces holding pink rosebuds. Covers were laid for six.

Parent-Teacher Executive Board of State Meets Here

The executive board of the State Parent-Teacher association held an all-day session in one of the committee rooms of the chamber of commerce on yesterday, with Mrs. Charles Hilbun, of Macon, newly-elected president, in the chair.

Other members of the board present were Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, vice president of the seventh district; Mrs. Bruce Carr Jones, of Macon, parliamentarian; Mrs. J. H. Spratling, also of Macon, chairman of the child welfare day department; Mrs. Charles Goodman, recording secretary; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John W. Rowlett, historian; Mrs. Wilber Colvin, chairman for children's books; Mrs. J. E. Andrews, chairman for Americanization; Mrs. J. T. Wilkins, child welfare and school and home magazine chairman; Mrs. J. Halsey Thompson, better films chairman; Mrs. W. F. Clark, Parent-Teacher associations in churches, chairman; Miss Rubie Busha, child hygiene chairman, and Mrs. Charles P. Ozburn, executive secretary, all of Atlanta.

Several important resolutions were passed by the board, a number of resignations accepted and appointments made by the president duly ratified. Reports of officers and department chairmen were also given, and plans for the promotion of the work gone into.

The morning session was devoted to an inspirational message from the president; to the regular order of business, and to reports.

The resignations of Mrs. Thomas Purse, of Savannah, vice president of the first district, and Mrs Clyde Rountree, vice president of the twelfth district, were accepted with deep regret. Their successors were not named by the board. Other resignations acted on by the board were those of Mrs. J. T. Wilkins, chairman for the P.-T. A. magazine department; Mrs. J. Halsey Thompson, chairman for "better films;" Mrs. Harry G. Greer, chairman of ways and means committee, and Mrs C. W. Heery, chairman of Parent-Teacher associations in schools.

Ratification of the appointments of Mrs. Walter Cheatham, of Macon, as vice president for the sixth district, and of Mrs. J. H. Spratling as chairman of the child welfare department, was made.

Department Work.

The departmental work of the state organization is to be reclassified, according to the latest plan of the national, the following special committee being named by the president to revise this particular work of the P.-T. A.: Mrs. Bruce Carr Jones, chairman; Mrs. Charles P. Ozburn, Mrs. John W. Rowlett, Mrs. M. E. Judd and Mrs. J. H. Spratling.

A motion was also adopted to have incorporated in the by-laws of the state organization, which were recently revised and passed on by the convention in May, to be adopted at the next annual convention, the ruling to have all state department chairmen preside at departmental meetings to be held in conjunction with the annual conventions of the state association.

Afternoon Session.

The board convened at 1 o'clock and the members were entertained at luncheon at the Daffodil Tea room, resuming regular session at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Howard C. McCutcheon, of Atlanta, president of the Fraser Street Parent-Teacher association, was elected by the board as state chairman of the ways and means committee after first being named permanent chairman of the special ways and means committee which met at 3 o'clock in a committee room of the chamber. Mrs. McCutcheon will have associated with her on this committee the following well-known P.-T. A. workers: Mrs. Walter Cheatham, Mrs. F. W. Williams and Mrs. Pope Brock, of Macon; Mrs. M. J. Stone, of Columbus; Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton; Mrs. Walter Warren, president of the Bolton association, and Mrs. Charles Goodman, Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, Mrs. Paul West, Mrs. Paul Beavers, Mrs. William F. Clark, Mrs. P. H. Jeter and Mrs. Dan Goepper, all of Atlanta, and others.

Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, will remain as chairman of the finance board.

Resolutions.

The first resolution presented was one in connection with disarmament, as adopted by the national organization at its July board meeting, and reading as follows:

"Be it Resolved, That we go on record in favor of gradual disarmament by international agreement, and in favor of a league or association of nations that shall tend to substitute law for war."

The board also indorsed a resolution presented by Mrs. Ada Colvin favoring a simpler style of dress for school girls. The resolution in full reads: "The executive board of the Georgia Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, in session, puts itself on record as favoring a simpler style of dressing for girls in the upper grammar grades, and in the high schools of the state. The present tendency to elaborate and extreme dressing, and the unlimited use of cosmetics by girls of school age, is deplorable. We recommend to our Parent-Teacher associations all over the state to use their influence to favor clean faces and simple and inexpensive dressing for girls attending school."

Another resolution of interest passed at yesterday's meeting related to the influence of the moving picture as related to education, and follows:

"Whereas, the moving picture is one of the most vital influences in education today; therefore, be it Resolved, That the executive board of the Georgia Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations goes on record as favoring a better selection of films, urging communities to the need of better informing themselves concerning the pictures being shown and to be shown, and to demand and patronize only the best and cleanest pictures."

Celebration of Armistice Day.

The board was unanimous in a decision to urge all local associations to celebrate with patriotic programs Armistice day, November 11; also voted to make special "rally day" plans in connection with a membership campaign.

An invitation coming from the board will be extended to the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations to hold the next annual meeting of this "mother" organization in Macon, Ga. So far, all the national meetings have been held north of Mason and Dixon's line, possibly with one exception, and it is believed this invitation coming from Georgia will be highly appreciated and given every consideration.

Mrs. Hilbun is urging the importance of district meetings and announced at Friday's meeting that she would give a banner to the district securing the largest number of new Parent-Teacher associations between now and the annual convention next spring. The banner to be mounted and on display at the 1922 meeting, which will be held in Columbus, Ga., at the same time the Georgia Educational association convenes.

The president also announced that the next board meeting would take palce in Macon in February of next year.

T. A. G. RAILROAD TO BE AUCTIONED AT CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., October 14.—The Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia railroad will be sold at public sale on the steps of the courthouse here tomorrow at noon unless an unforeseen postponement in the sale again occurs.

The original date of sale was August 15, but due to requests of the Russell Sage estate, the sale was delayed until Seetpmber 15, at which time a further postponement was made until tomorrow

The previous postponements were made, according to dispatches, because of certain negotiations for the sale of the road that were then in progress.

It was stated by officials of the road some time ago that, in their opinion, Prince and Co., would probably take over the property. Mr. Prince at one time was a director in the line, and is personally interested in the development of small railroads.

ONE OF THREE BEST GEORGIA SONGS WORK OF ATLANTAN

Savannah, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—Out of more than seventy songs, words and music, at first submitted in the contest of the women's clubs of the state for a "state songs," three remain now, following preliminary and then more careful elimination, to be sung at the approaching state federation convention in Savannah next month.

From the three one will be chosen as the "Georgia song" in pursuance of the plan published by the women's organizations last summer. Among the three, Atlanta furnishes one author and Savannah two The following three songs will be presented for final judgment: "A Song of Georgia," by Miss Nan Stephens, of Atlanta words and music; "Georgia," words and music by Charles M. Gibbs, Savannah, and "Any Place is Home in Georgia," words by Ralph Mathven Thomson, of Savannah, and music by Miss Mollie Bernstein, also of Savannah.

Third Man Sentenced To Penalty of Death For Murder of Deck

Ironton, Mo., October 14.—Ernest Hayes, of Herculaneum, was found guilty by a jury yesterday of complicity in the murder of Andrew Deck, volunteer prohibition enfrocement agent, February 6, and punishment was fixed at death.

Hayes' son, Eugene, and James P. Seward, of St. Louis, also are under sentence for the murder and three other men are awaiting trial.

Loses Hand.

Fairburn, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—While operating a power-driven feed cutter on his father's farm near here this morning, John Seaborn Cleckler lost his left hand just below the wrist when it became entangled in the machinery. Due to the mangled condition of his forearm it was necessary to remove a portion of it.

Cleckler is a first honor graduate of Fairburn High school and on last June received a B. S. agriculture degree from the University of Georgia He has taught school at various times in Campbell county, and has large number of friends here.

Announces Fair Dates.

Dublin, Ga., October 14.—(Special.)—General Manager E. Ross Jordan, of the Twelfth District Fair association, announced today that the annual fair would be held from October 31 to November 5. For some reason the dates were postponed from October 10 to 15, but the necessary delay, the fair officials declare, will enable them to have even greater attractions and a larger variety of exhibits than had been previously planned for.

The Constitution's Weekly Novel

THE FUR BRINGERS

(Copyright, 1921, for The Constitution)

By HULBERT FOOTNER

NEXT WEEK: "The Beautiful Mrs. Davenant," by Violet Tweedale, starting Sunday.

Mr. Pascoe rose. His erstwhile ruddy cheeks showed an odd pallor under the purple veins, and he looked thoroughly disconcerted. "My lord," he said, "this is a very affecting tale. It is, however, my painful duty to protest against its admission as evidence."

Colina interrupted him. "I beg your pardon," she said quickly. She produced a little book from inside her dress. "May I explain further?" she asked the judge eagerly.

"One moment, please, Mr. Pascoe," said his lordship. He signed to Colina to proceed.

"I meant, of course, to bring Nesis here," Colina continued. "When I saw that—that I never would, while I didn't know anything about courts or evidence, I felt that it would be safer to have a written statement.

"This book is my diary that I always carry with me. That night I wrote in the blank pages what Nesis had told me, and later when she was conscious I read it to her, and she affirmed it sentence by sentence. She understood how important it was.

"You may know that she comprehended what she was doing because she made me make changes—you will find them here. At the end I wrote her name and she made a cross. Cora heard me read it to her, and saw her make her mark."

The judge held out his hand for the book.

Onec more, Mr. Pascoe rose. "My Lord," he said, "it must be clear to you that the ends of justice have been defeated by the dramatic power of this tale. It would be farcical to ask this jury to deliver an impartial verdict now. This new evidence must be weighed and sifted with calm minds. I request that you declare a mistrial, and that"—

A still more dramatic surprise awaited Mr. Pascoe and the court. Toward the end of the telling of Colina's painful tale Gordon Strange had been forgotten by all in the room except the policeman detailed to watch him. This man suddenly made a spring toward the half-breed, where he sat huddled beside his table. He was too late. The court was electrified by the muffled sound of a shot. Strange fell forward on the table. A revlover clattered to the floor from under his coat.

Naturally the jury without leaving their seats returned a verdict of not guilty. And, also naturally, Ambrose Doane and Colina Garviller were married within a month thereafter. The company, to save its face, requested John Galliver's resignation. But as he proved conclusively that all he had done at Enterprise he had done by the company's orders, he was taken on by Minot & Doane and given charge of a new station which they established at Great Buffalo lake. After a wedding trip to the great world "outside," Ambrose and his bride settled down at Moultrie, while Peter Minot took charge of an opposition store which the firm established at Enterprise. Job, the little dog still wags his tail contentedly at Moultrie and there is much peace after the storm for Ambrose and Colina at that trading post.

THE END.

KEY MAKES TALK TO SECOND WARD CITIZENS' CLUB

Mayor Key delivered an address on "Duties of Citizens and Officials in Administration of Public Affairs," to the Second Ward Citizens' club, in the Georgia Avenue school building, last night. The reason for Atlanta's unemployment situation was attributed to the bonds not yet being paid.

He said that every child has a constitutional right to an education and declared that citizens and politicians should stand by their convictions.

"No man should be permitted to dictate to another as to how he should worship God, and no politician should mix religion with politics He deserves to get beat."

T. L. Slattery is secretary of the club.

Effort to Deceive Court Is Charged By Judge Sibley

James R. Johnson Given Six Months for Selling Booze Over Bar.

After being severely arraigned by Judge Samuel H. Sibley for attempting to deceive the court by offering witnesses whose testimony contradicted that of several officers, James R. Johnson, one of the bartenders at Jack's place, 22 West Alabama street, was arrested recently for selling whisky over the bar, was sentenced to serve three months in each of two prohibition violation cases in federal court Friday.

Federal Prohibition Agent Saphire testified that before placing Johnson under arrest that he had purchased drinks of corn whisky for eleven different persons at 50 cents a drink. Other officers swore that whisky was sold at Jack's place over the bar. Johnson and another bartender named Corley, were then taken into custody.

The defense undertook to prove by a number of witnesses that to their certain knowledge whisky had never been sold at Jack's place. It was the testimony of these witnesses that Judge Sibley criticised.

Friday was the second instance this week where Judge Sibley has lectured witnesses for attempting to deceive the court. Thursday he charged that witnesses who attempted to establish an alibi for Gent Stokes and Ernest Brown, two Fayette county men on trial for possessing whisky, with deliberately swearing falsehoods to clear the men. The men were charged with having about one gallon of whisky, and were fined $400 each, which is an unusually large fine for the quantity of liquor involved.

EIGHTEEN MEN HURT IN COAL DUST BLAST

Marshfield, Ore., October 14.—Eighteen men are in hospitals at North Bend and Coquille as a result of a coal dust explosion today at the Beaver Hill mine near Coquille. Six of the men are seriously burned and physicians said two may die. The mine is owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad company.

Secretary Denies Rumored Shortage In Federal Funds

Washington, October 14.—Federal expenditures for the current fiscal year will be kept within the agreed limit of $4,034,000,000, Secretary Mellon declared tonight in a statement denying reports that additional deficiency appropriations of $370,000,000 would be asked. The program limiting expenditures to the above figure which had the sanction of the president and the house ways and means committee is being carried out satisfactorily, according to the statement.

The original program made allowances for estimated deficiency appropriations which "it was realized would be necessary in connection with certain government activities," Mr. Mellon explained. These included particularly the settlements with the railroads growing out of federal control and vocational training for the former service men, but Mr. Mellon added that his information indicated the revenue requirements of the government still would be amply provided in the $4,034,000,000.

Congress has been advised, the secretary said, that it could proceed with the framing of revenue laws on that basis, and there now appeared no reason to alter the plan. The tax program, therefore, was not affected, he added.

Some deficiency appropriations will be submitted during the current fiscal year, according to the secretary, who reiterated that they had been taken into consideration already in the estimating of actual expenditures. Mr. Mellon said also that so far as treasury officials could now foresee, financial plans for the coming year would stand unchanged.

GREENVILLE MAN DIES IN SHOOTING AFFRAY

Greenville, S. C., October 14.—Thomas F. McCarroll, young tire dealer, died today at a local hospital from a bullet wound in his neck alleged to have been inflicted by J. Charles Marlowe, who, the officers said, claims he shot McCarroll in self-defense at the Elks home here yesterday afternoon.

Marlowe, who claims to be from Arizona, and who was sanitary inspector at the United States public health service hospital at Camp Sevier until four months ago, is held in jail without bond pending the outcome of the coroner's inquest. He said that the affair resulted from a quarrel over a game of cards, and that he fired his pistol after McCarroll had struck him with a chair.

McCarroll was about to drown in his own blood when a physician arrived and found him unconscious.

EPISCOPALS PLAN SPECIAL SERVICES ON ARMISTICE DAY

New York, October 24.—November 11, Armistice day, will be observed by special services in all the Episcopal churches of the world, says an announcement by the Right Rev. Thomas F. Gailor, D. D., president of the church council. Special prayers will be said for the success of the conference on armament that will open in Washington on that date, and Sunday, November 13, will also be set aside for similar services.

tered into at the conference "a reasonable impossibility." In this work the Carnegie peace foundation is working with the specially created division in the state department to handle Far Eastern and European problems.

To Reassure France.

The intention to create some substitute for the present French military "insurance army" established along the Rhine to force German submission to her treaty committments, particularly regarding reparations payment, is in response both to insistent urging of French statesmen and to suggestions of American business men. Former Premier Clemenceau, Premier Briand and other French leaders have recently in public speeches pointed out the need of some international arrangement which would adequately reassure France if her military establishment is to be curtailed.

Along the same line a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce after completing a trip of investigation through Europe, has formally reported to the chamber.

"It is essential to Germany, in her own interests, that some plan shall be devised by which France and other European countries shall be given assurance of security in the future. Some of the most important leaders in Germany frankly declare that France should have such assurance. They were unable to suggest any acceptable guarantee which Germany herself could offer, but they expressed the hope that the other countries might soon agree upon some method of meeting the situation. German leaders believe that otherwise they must live and work for years in a constant state of friction with France and the ever-present possibility of French armies occupying more territory whenever difficulties arise.

Cost of Occupation.

"The cost of the armies of occupation represents a large sum of money which, under the treaty, Germany must pay in addition to indemnities. If this expense could be cut off or reduced to a minimum, it would help Germany greatly in making payment. It would render outside financial aid to Germany much easier than under present conditions. It would likewise be of assistance to France, since it would restore to productive effort thousands of her young men now in her army whose employment as a police force represents an enormous burden and is a drag on the whole world. The possible removal of this burden, however, depends upon some effective plan for the maintenance of peace, on which the nations shall unite."

It is along this line that the American government is working. And, in connection with the German-French reparations situation, which is keeping Europe in chaos, the question of foreign loans intrudes itself. It is held by many that if loan obligations could be rangement of the German-French larly of assisting France, an arrangement of the German-French situation would be simplified. It is not surprising therefore to business authorities that President Harding has compromised with congress on the foreign loan funding bill in the hope of getting action this session. Without the power he asks it would be impossible for this government to do anything in the matter.

Named By President.

Under the compromise plan one of the five commissioners would be the secretary of the treasury. The other four would be appointed by the president, and all of these, save members of the cabinet he might select, would be subject to the approval of the senate. The president, it is believed, would place both Secretaries Hoover and Hughes on the commission, Hughes to maintain a close tie between the arms conference and the commission in relation to foreign loan adjustments that might come to play a part.

It is yet too early to ascertain what this government may do in regard to the suggested mediation of the Shantung dispute between Japan and China. Only the most informal approaches have been made as yet on the question, and the state department is studying it.

BRIAND MAY LENGTHEN VISIT.

Paris, October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is the hope of Premier Briand that when he visits Washington next month for the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, he will be able to remain there longer than the ten days which it has been stated he can give for his visit. If domestic politics permit, he will extend his stay in the American capital. In all events it is his desire to remain long enough to take an active part in the work of the conference and to define the attitude of the French government on the important subjects which will be discussed.

M. Briand feels that France has sentimental interest in her prime minister going to Washington on the first invitation for an international meeting issued by a country, at whose birth, France, in a sense, considers she was present.

Phillipe J. L. Berthelot, general secretary of the foreign office, upon whom M. Briand greatly relies on questions of foreign affairs, may return from Washington with the premier.

Jules J. Jusserand, French ambassador to the United States, will leave tomorrow on the steamship La Lorraine to return to his post in Washington. He had intended to sail on the same steamer on which Marshal Foch will leave October 22, but changed his plans at the request of Premier Briand, so as to arrive in Washington in ample time to complete details incident to the armaments conference.

CATTIER IS BELGIAN DELEGATE.

Brussels, October 14.—Felician Cattier, a Belgain banker, will accompany Baron de Cartier de Marchienne as the second delegate from Belgium to the Washington conference. R. Evrts, the Belgian minister to Pekin, probably will be the third delegate, replacing Emil Franqui, minister of state, who will be detained in Europe by business affairs.

JAPANESE TO BRING GIFT.

Tokio, September 22.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) It is announced that the Japanese delegation to the pacific conference at Washington will take with it a large stone lantern as a gift of the Tokio municipality to the Washington municipal authorities.

Several years ago, during the mayoralty of Yukio Ozaki, the city of Tokio presented a number of cherry trees to Washington. The lantern, which will be set up near the trees, is complimentary to the foregoing gift and will bear the inscription: "These cherry trees have been presented to the citizens of America by the citizens of Tokio as a token of American-Japanese friendship."

The lantern is 25 feet in height.

AMERICAN EXCHANGE.

New York, October 14.—(Special.)—The following were the ruling prices on the American Cotton and Grain Exchange, Inc., today:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
Jan.	18.72	19.08	18.53	19.00	18.91
Mar.	18.54	18.90	18.38	18.85	18.70

Dec.	19.08	19.33	18.65	19.22	19.20

New York, October 14.—There was a further decline in the cotton market during today's early trading, which carried prices into new low ground for the movement, with December selling at 18.86, or 309 points below the high record of October 3. Offerings then became less active and there were rallies later on covering for over the week-end which carried December up to 19.33, or 18 points net higher. That delivery closed at 19.16 with the general list closing steady at a net decline of 12 points on October, but generally 1 to 17 points above last night's final figures.

The market opened barely steady at an advance of 10 points on June, but 7 to 16 lower on other positions, owing to weak Liverpool cables and overnight selling orders. October was relatively easy owing to the issuance of notices against about 3,000 bales of the cotton taken up at the beginning of the month, supposedly for Japanese account.

This led to scattering liquidation, which sent the price off to 18.63, or 44 points net lower, while later months sold only 25 to 30 points below last night's closing figures with January touching 18.54. There was more covering at these figures, while the southern hedge selling became less active and liquidation also seemed to be tapering off after the more or less persistent selling of the last two weeks.

Prices steadied up in consequence and there was some trade buying on the rally to 19.08 for January, with the late afternoon market showing net advances of 18 to 25 points on the active positions. The close was off from the best under realizing.

The census report showing 484,647 bales consumed in this country during September against 457,967 last year was considered bullish, but was without any appreciable influence on the day's market.

Private cables reported continental liquidation in Liverpool, resulting from the weakness of the mark and the recent unsettled Silesian developments, also a smaller trade demand, although Manchester said there was an improved demand from India. Port receipts today were 43,968; United States port stocks, 1,511,400. Exports, 42,268, making 1,235,467 so far this season.

NEW YORK SPOTS.

ADVANCES ARE MADE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, October 14.—Declines of 30 to 37 points occurred in the price of cotton in the early trading today, but losses were made up and replaced by advances above the level of yesterday's close of 22 to 32 points in the second half of the session, the market finally closing at net gains of 10 to 18 points. Exceedingly favorable statistical developments were mainly responsible for the strength. Early losses were due to more than the usual volume of hedge selling, to which was added liquidation by longs, because of a poor Liverpool, and persistent selling for speculative account. Not a little of the selling might be traced to the final refusal by authorities at Washington to have anything to do with a crop estimate in connection with the forthcoming report on ginning to October 18.

Statistics were sensational in their meaning and while at first more or less ignored, gradually lifted the market out of its losses, and in the trading after mid-session brought about moderate gains. American consumption figures were larger than expected, mill takings were called enormous and the export movement was surprisingly large in view of all the gloomy things that recently have been said about conditions abroad.

American consumption of 484,647 bales during September exceeded all expectations, highest private estimates being 480,000 bales and generally considered altogether too high. Hester placed mill takings of American cotton for the week by the world at 332,000 bales, against 155,000 this week last year, and 190,000 this week two years ago, the heaviest takings since the middle of January, 1920. Exports for the week were 245,160 bales, against 158,253 this week last year, and 103,702 this week two years ago.

Just on the close buyers who took hold earlier in the day were inclined to accept their profits, and this caused small recessions from the highest. December fell off to 18.27 in the early session, traded as high as 18.85 later, and closed at 18.75.

NEW ORLEANS SPOTS.

New Orleans, October 14.—Spot cotton steady, 25 lower. Sales on the spot 3,053 bales; to arrive, 600. Low middling, 16.75; middling, 18.75; good middling, 19.75. Receipts, 6,512; stock, 415,874.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, October 14.—(Special.)—Our market opened lower on weaker Liverpool cables and as a consequence the market declined, catching stop orders under 19c for December. After the first hour the decline seemed to have spent itself and a fresh outlook on the situation showed an increase in exports and bullish consumption figures and good takings by spinners. Manchester later reported a good demand for cloth. On the strength of the steady closing of Liverpool futures our market responded with fresh buying and week-end covering of shorts, causing most of the early losses and bringing the market to within a few points of the opening prices. Altogether the situation appears brighter and we would not be surprised to see the market advance gradually from these prices.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.

New York, October 14.—(Special.)—Today's cotton market was nervous throughout the session. Breaks were followed by rallies and rallies by breaks with final prices slightly above the previous closing. This shows the contest among traders of divergent opinions as to the values based upon different viewpoints. Small croppers insist that the price is entirely too low. On the other hand many in the trade are deeply impressed with the unsatisfactory economic situation and the open fall season, which they believe will add to the size of the crop. Until one or the other side makes most forceful its viewpoints a scalping market is what may be expected.

ORVIS BROTHERS & CO.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, October 14.—After an easy opening, due to weakness in lard, the cotton seed oil market rallied and became quite firm on commission house support based on the late grain strength, closing unchanged to 25 points net higher. Sales, 19,600 barrels. Prime crude, 7; prime summer yellow spot, 8.25 bid, December 8.75, March 8.99, May 9.15, all bid.

Increase Shown In Consumption Of Cotton in 1921

STOCKS MARK TIME THROUGH FRIDAY

New York, October 14.—Apart from the increased prominence of minor speculative issues, some of which extended their gains, there was little of note or significance in today's professional stock market session. Opinion among traders appeared to be more confused, probably as a result of latest phases bearing upon labor and industrial conditions and the detached attitude of the public. Money rates were firm at the outset, but the 6 per cent rate was lowered to 5 per cent later, when it became evident that tomorrow's heavy payments to meet maturities on certificates of indebtedness and Liberty bond interest would be accomplished without strain.

A large proportion of the day's business again embraced the cheaper domestic oils, their activity being accompanied by further upward revision of prices for various products. Popular issues of that group were chiefly represented by Mexican Petroleum, although a three point rise in that stock was reduced to 1 3-8 at the heavy close.

Steels and equipments, also motors and their accessories suffered losses of 1 to 3 points and rails led the general decline of the last hour with sugars, chemicals and rubbers. Sales amounted to 635,000 shares.

A sharp recovery in sterling, attributed to purchases of demand bills to meet mid-October cotton and grain payments, was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Nearly all other European remittances were appreciably firmer, even the German rate showing some support. Far Eastern exchanges, notably the Chinese and Japanese quotations, also were better.

Liberty bonds and Victory notes were stronger by fractions to fully fifty points, neither series, however, making new high records. The general bond list was uneven, but some rails, including Seaboard Air Line issues strengthened perceptibly. Total sales, par value, $16,775,000.

GRAIN IS STRONG ON EVE OF REPORTS

Chicago, October 14.—Belief that the government reports tomorrow on stocks of wheat in all positions would prove bullish had much to do with a material advance today in wheat prices. The market closed strong, 1 1-2 to 3 1-4c net higher with December 1.15 1-2 to 1.15 3-4 and May 1.19 3-4 to 1.20. Corn gained 1-2 to 5-8 to 1c and oats finished unchanged to 1-8c up. In provisions the outcome varied from 5c decline to a like advance.

Estimates as to the amount of wheat which the government report would show to be on hand ranged from 500,000,000 bushels to 550,000,000 bushels, whereas the total last year was 608,000,000 bushels, and two years ago was 747,000,000 bushels. Word that exporters had taken 500,000 bushels of durum and a cargo of hard winter tended further to strengthen the market, and so, too, did dry weather complaints from parts of Nebraska and Kansas. On the other hand, announcement of a railroad embargo against Galveston was largely offset by news of an active milling demand for wheat in the southwest. Under such circumstances bulls had a decided advantage during the last half of the session. Moderate declines earlier were ascribed chiefly to contentions that the present warehouse supply of all grain was excessive.

Corn developed firmness with wheat and as a result of gossip that throughout wide areas the burning of corn as fuel this winter had become a practical certainty. Oats sympathized with corn.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to steady provisions, except that smaller packers selling forced October lard and October ribs to a new low level for the season.

Sugar.

New York, October 14.—The raw sugar market was easier today and prices were ⅛c lower, the committee reporting sales of 40,000 bags to local refiners at 2½c, cost and freight, equal to 4.11 for centrifugal and 6,000 tons to France, prompt loading, at 15s 6d, c.i.f., to France. There were no sales of duty-free sugars, although they were offered at 4c for centrifugal.

The raw sugar futures market was firmer early on covering and buying by commission houses, but after showing advances of 2 to 3 points on some of the active positions, prices eased off under trade selling, prompted by the decline in the spot market, with final quotations unchanged to 5 points net lower. December closed at 2.32, March 2.25, May 2.31 and July 2.44.

The market for refined sugar was unchanged at 5.30 for fine granulated. There was a fair inquiry noted, but the demand was for prompt shipment only.

There were no transactions in refined futures and prices were more or less nominal, closing 10 higher to 1 lower. December closed at 5.35 and March and later months 5.30.

Improvement Noted In Retail Business By Bradstreets

New York, October 14.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Favored by continued seasonable fall weather, retail distribution has further expanded. Heavyweight wearing apparel, notably clothing, knit wear and shoes, lead, but current trade in groceries, hardware and household goods, including linens and table wear is said to be fully fair.

A perhaps significant feature is the number of cities reporting demand for men's working clothes improved, reflection of this being had in advices of activity in this line of manufacture. Best reports as to retail buying come from the west and south, but it is worth noting that in some large industrial centers, where manufacturing is specialized and operations are at only half speed, retail buying tends to lag. Manufacturing as a whole, however, shows a further slight gain, resulting in numerous reports of small decreases in unemployment.

Atlanta Federal Reserve Ratio Shows Advance

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, October 14.—(Special).—The reserve ratio of the New York Federal Reserve bank dropped during the past week to 77 against 80 a week ago. But the present figure compares with only 38.7 at this time last year. With the average of the system as a whole now at 68.5 interest centers in the showing of four banks. Atlanta now stands at 41.9 against 41.7 a week ago and 40.3 a year ago; Minneapolis at 41.7 against 41.6 and 39.8; Richmond at 43.2 against 43.1 and 44.3; Dallas 38.3 against 41.4 and 41.1.

Rubber shares, rails and steels were soft today. The oils were again strong and new high records for this movement being made by a number of issues on the announcement of another advance of 25 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil.

The only news on the oil situation came in the form of comment by The National Petroleum News, the organ of the oil industry. That authority says the only possible hindrance for the crude oil advances is salt water invasion of the Mexican fields, adding "the rapidity with which salt water encroachment has been taking productive high spots has been pointed out repeatedly. It is estimated that Standard Oil has dropped $100,000,000 in the Mexican fields because it waited too long to change its policy. Instead of Standard Oil taking out oil," it added, "the water did it."

Certainly crude oil prices, oil shares and the price of finished oil products are acting as though competition of some kind had been removed. Gasoline prices were advanced a cent a gallon today in Pennsylvania and some of the other eastern states with the price of kerosene up two cents.

Aside from estimates as to what the forthcoming steel corporation statement of earnings for the September quarter would show, these estimates being based on the unfavorable report just made by Lackawanna steel, there was nothing new in the steel situation to account for the softness of the steel shares. There was news, however, effecting the rails. Today 150 railway executives met at Chicago to discuss wage reductions and the request of the administration and the suggestion made by the unemployment conference and others that a reduction be made in freight rates. The railway officials passed the responsibility along to the administration and to the labor unions by stating that any further reductions in wages would be met by corresponding cuts in freight rates. The labor unions, meeting at the same time as the railway executives, declared that the strike vote already taken by employees would be exercised on October 30 unless negotiations were reopened over the recent wage cut of 12 per cent and the changes in working conditions.

American Telephone reports for the nine months ended with September earnings equal to $7.65 a share on the $532,286,000 outstanding stock against $8.85 earned on the $442,178,000 stock outstanding at the close of September of last year. The company is now paying 9 per cent.

Sears-Roebuck estimates that its earnings for October were off only 10 per cent, compared with the same period of 1920. During the early part of the year the monthly loss was much larger February, showing only $14,000,000 against $28,000,000 for the same month of 1920. The management states that bank loans of $10,000,000 will be made to take up the $16,500,000 notes maturing tomorrow.

For the third successive week there has been no change reported in the average price of eight principal steel finished products, the figures remaining at 48.26 against 48.68 a month ago. The high for 1920 was 85.03 and the pre-war level 35.80.

Sugar men here call the price cutting warfare just renewed a case of nerves. The jobbers do not call it that. They say they misjudged the market during the recent advances and loaded up and that the refiners are now cutting prices on them. Cuba, too, has another name for the situation than nerves. According to today's Havana cables a petition is being presented to the Cuban government asking that part of the forthcoming loan be used to take from 600,000 to 800,000 tons of sugar off the market, "with the object of balancing supply and demand." The same cables report that Dwight Morrow, the Morgan partner who has been investigating the stiuation first-hand, starts home tomorrow. It is hard to imagine that Morrow will recommend to his partners that a loan be made to Cuba for the purpose of holding the sugar bag for overloaded speculators.

INDIAN FINED $1,000 FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Ponca City, Okla., October 14.—Legal procedure said by local attorneys to set a precedent, was recorded here when a jury in district court, which had heard evidence against Napoleon Buffalo Head, wealthy Indian, charged with killing his wife, returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter and assessed a fine of $1,000.

The jury is understood to have stood originally ten to two for acquittal. Unable after several votes to agree, the fine was accepted as a compromise, according to jurors.

PASSENGER TRAIN HELD UP BY FIFTY ARMED MEXICANS

Mexico City, October 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Fifty armed men under the leadership of the rebel captain, Castillo, yesterday held up a passenger train from Vera Cruz to Mexico City near the small station of Signoret, seven miles from Pueblo, robbed the passengers and escaped with considerable booty.

The bandits made their escape after forcing the passengers to walk into the village of Signoret. Shots were exchanged and three persons were killed. Whether these were bandits or passengers was not stated in the first news of the hold-up which reached Mexico City today.

STEPHENSON TRIAL TO BEGIN MONDAY

Birmingham, Ala., October 14.—Piedro Gussman, whose marriage to Ruth Stephenson is alleged to have precipitated the killing of Father James E. Coyle by Rev. Edwin R. Stephenson, father of the young woman, was today subpoenaed as a witness for the defense in the trial of the minister which is scheduled to begin Monday.

Ninety-six other witnesses have been summoned by the deefnse and 74 by the state.

A subpoena for Mrs. Gussman, principal witness for the state at the preliminary trial, has been returned to the solicitor's office, bearing the indorsement "not found." She left the jurisdiction of the court several weeks ago, it is alleged, after she advised state's counsel that she would return for the trial.

More Graves Are Needed

The Unknown Mothers, Wives and Babies Killed in the War Must Be Remembered.

Three graves—

One beneath the Arche de Triomphe in Paris, another in London's Westminster Abbey, a third to be in Arlington. In each of the three, a man from the ranks will rest. This, in honor of the unknown soldier dead.

If the 19,658,000 men and boys, killed in the battles of 1914-1918, were all the dead, the three graves might be enough to satisfy the toiling, sweating masses from whose homes came the unknown soldier dead. But to these millions must be added the 30,470,000 men, women, and children, slain by hunger, disease, and other miseries, the invariable companions of war. And the 40,500,000 children, lost to the world by the inevitable decline in the rate of birth following the war, must be included.

One grave in each of the three famed resting places is not enough for these more than ninety million victims.

By the side of the lone soldier, room should be made for the unknown mother, who endured the pangs of hell to give life to her boy, whom she brought forth to the threshold of manhood, only to see him go forth to die in the hideous welter of battle. There, too, should sleep the wife, from whose arms the husband went to the embrace of death, leaving her and his children to struggle and starve without his help.

The third would be a tiny thing.

Beneath that glorious arch, which proclaims the triumphs of Napoleon, but of the agony, imposed upon mankind by his ambition, says not a word to the thoughtless throngs on pleasure bent, swarming up the Avenue of the Elysian Fields, and out to the Bois de Boulogne, only a little space would suffice.

The smallest marble-covered corner would be enough in Westminster, where sleep so many of England's mighty dead, sacrificed in wars which would never have been if the unthinking millions, who pass those wondrous walls, and our world had ever learned the lessons Westminster was reared to teach.

In Arlington, eloquent of our beloved Lee, and of hopes crushed beneath the brutal, futile heels of war, the tiniest bit of earth would serve as a grave for the unknown baby, dead of the cruelty of man.

Behold the Babies.

"Behold the Man," cried Pilate, pointing to the Christ, thorn-crowned and scourged, in hope that pity would touch the hearts of those who would crucify the Son of Man.

What shall we say?

Frederick Palmer, student and actual witness of the wars, which have harassed our earth in the last twenty years, declares:

"Every sign indicates that we intend the babies, which our mothers are now nursing, for slaughter in a future world war."

Behold the babies!

Mark not these graves with stones graved with the beautiful words, which for centuries past have soothed humanity's griefs and lulled men to slumber in the presence of wrongs, which should bring the blush of shame even to the Prince of Hell.

Above the old mother, bereft o' her boy, place a cross, bearing a woman, with bowed head and outstretched helpless, shriveled arms. Over the wife, put a cross lifting the young mother, famished, broken-hearted, with flat and shrunken breasts, which the dying baby pressed in vain for food. And above the little grave, plant another cross carrying a baby crucified.

Thus do we crucify Christ afresh.

The Many Tortured.

Every battlefield in Calvary.

But Calvary of old bore alone God's Son crucified between two thieves.

By war, we surround the suffering Son of Man with millions of mothers and babies harried, starved and torturned to death.

It would be well to make an end of war.

General Tasker H. Bliss, of the United States army, says:

"The responsibility is entirely on the professing Christians of the United States. If another war like the last one should come, they will be responsible for every drop of blood that will be shed, and for every dollar wastefully expended."

Herbert Hoover fed the babies of Belgium. When 3,500,000 children were starving in central Europe, as the result of war, Hoover led the forces, who saved many lives, though they could not make straight the many little backs and legs, hopelessly crooked and twisted by famine. Today, this man is getting food to the millions dying of hunger in Russia.

Hoover says: "There is no more inconceivable folly than this continued riot of expenditure on battleships at a time when great masses of humanity are dying of starvation."

Hear these hungry crying. See, walking America's streets today, 5,000,000 unemployed, overshadowing with want 25,000,000 lives, as an aftermath of war. Then face these figures. In 1912, Great Britain's army and navy appropriations were $351,044,000. In 1921, they are $1,121,318,000, an increase of more than 300 per cent. In 1912, Japan's army and navy appropriations were $93,576,000. In 1921, they are $282,357,000, an increase of 300 per cent.

In 1912, the appropriations for the army and navy of the United States were $244,177,000. In 1921, they are $1,422,752,000, with an estimate of $1,750,000,000 for the year ending June, 1922, an increase of more than 600 per cent.

We should not deceive ourselves. War is already on.

You Can Help.

How many graves must we dig, how many crosses must be bear, how many more millions of mothers, babies, men and boys must we kill?

Surely God speaks in the call for the conference on disarmament that meets in Washington in November.

Lord Northcliffe, British editor, says:

"I cannot conceive of any greater disaster than the failure of the conference to achieve the ends for which it is called. It is essential that all should help to make it a success. We can all help by promoting good will, by not saying unkind things about other nations, by disarming our minds before we reduce our fleets."

Whoever you are, whatever your position in life, you can help in this, the most critical period of history.

Night and morning, in your prayers, ask God to guide you, your family, your city, your state, your nation, and the families and nations of the world out from the paths of suspicion, envy and hate, into His great way of faith and love.

Let us stop killing mothers and babies.

We will, if we look at the graves.

CAMP GORDON SOLD, BUT AMOUNT PAID NOT YET GIVEN OUT

Camp Gordon was sold Thursday morning, but as yet the exact amount paid by purchasers for the property has not been tabulated, although government employees were busy working Thursday afternoon, and all day Friday.

Estimates as to the amount which entered into the government exchequer as a result of the auction, which was conducted by Gerth Brothers, of New Orleans, range from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

It is thought that the Rose Brothers, of the Cleveland Wrecking company, Minneapolis, Minn., and T. W. Sawtell, of 1334 Peachtree street, Atlanta, the greatest buyers during the auction, will co-operate in an endeavor to construct a town on the camp site, to be a suburb of Atlanta. Nothing definite concerning the movement is known at present.

The Gerth Brothers who conducted the auction here and who have conducted similar ones in various parts of the country for the federal government, will, it is thought, auction some Alabama camps.

DETROIT IS GIVEN UTILITY MEETING

The next convention of the National Association of Railway and Utilities commissioners will be held in Detroit during the week of September 26, 1922. This was decided Friday morning before the final session of the four-day gathering of the commissioners adjourned at the Georgian Terrace hotel. Seattle, St. Louis, Santa Fe and Washington were considered before a decision was made.

M. H. Aylesworth, of New York, general manager of the National Electric association, delivered the principal address Friday. He offered an analysis of the differences between national governmental ownership of utilities companies and ownership by cities and states. He said that utilities already are operated under "public ownership," which he declared to be preferable to municipal ownership. By "public ownership," he explained that he meant that many utilities now are owned by a million and a half stockholders and securities owners with private management.

Carl D. Jackson, chairman of the Wisconsin rate commission, was introduced as the president for the year just beginning by the retiring president, James A. Perry, of the Georgia commission. Mr. Perry made a short farewell speech.

Judge George Hillyer, former member of the Georgia commission and an honorary member of the association, was given additional honors when it was voted to publish his biography in the association's annual report.

Charles T. Proudy, formerly of the interstate commerce commission; R. B. Mills, former chairman of the Minnesota rate commission; A. C. Claussen, secretary of the Minnesota commission, and Professor H. C. Adams, formerly of the faculty of the University of Michigan, all of whom died during the past year, were memorialized in resolutions adopted.

Compliments were voted to the Presidents' club, of Atlanta, for the efficient way in which it entertained the convention, and for the extreme hospitality accorded the delegates. In the resolution of appreciation the delegates gave Atlanta the title, "Premier convention city." Special mention was made of J. Prince Webster, former rate expert of the Georgia commission, and J. N. Couch, manager of the Georgian Terrace, in the resolution of thanks.

PAGEANT TO SHOW MISSION OF CHURCH

A pageant, depicting the mission of the church, in which all Episcopal churches will take part, is to be shown Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock at St. Luke's church. The public is invited to this pageant which is given in commemoration of the centennial of the founding of the Missionary society of the Episcopal church.

In forming this missionary society one hundred years ago, the church made every one of its communicants a member. It has been a source of pride to American Episcopalians that under the egis of their missionary society the cross and the flag of their country have been banded together. In not a few cases, the cross, borne aloft by valiant missionary pioneers, has led the way.

Starting out with but a handful of men and very little money, the missionary society has spread out until now it is working at home and abroad with more missionaries and greater vision than ever before. It has been the purpose of this society to establish the church on a national basis in every country where there are missions. This has been accomplished twice—in Japan and China. Other remote regions of the earth where the missionary society has done a great work are Hawaii, the Philippines, Latin America, Alaska and the African republic of Liberia.

The objects of the centennial are to enroll missionaries for work at home and abroad; to get 100,000 proportionate givers, and 100,00 intercessors for the mission of the church.

CONFESSION RESULTS IN LIGHT SENTENCE

Nashville, Tenn., October 14.—Because he confessed his guilt to prevent the possible implication of an innocent man in a bank fund embezzlement, Guy Tucker, former teller in the American National bank, was sentenced to only eight months in jail, Judge E. T. Sanford said here today in announcing the sentence.

Through admission made voluntarily by Tucker shortly after his arrest two weeks ago, the implication of another employee of the bank was prevented, federal authorities here say. They claim that had Tucker not thrown himself on the mercy of the court, he would have been acquitted while his associate would have been arrested as the principal in the case.

SPECIAL OFFICER FOUND MURDERED IN FARM SHANTY

Lynchburg, Va., October 14.—Aubrey B. Kyle, 45, special Campbell county officer, was found dead in a shanty on a farm near Lynchburg this morning, the back of his head having been almost blown away with a shotgun.

The gun was found lying across the man's legs, in a position almost impossible for him to have gotten it after being wounded. The police authorities have expressed no opinion as yet but the circumstances seem to indicate murder. Kyle has not been active as a policeman for several months.

LITTLE LESS THAN A REAL MIRACLE

Graphic Story by A. F. Lindsey, of Harrington, Told in Few Words.

A. F. Lindsey, farmer, of Harrington, Me., writes the Priest Drug Co., of Bangor:—

I used two bottles of Priest's Indigestion Powder while at Southwest Harbor and it did me so much good and helped me so that I continued the treatment after I got home. I used in all two large size bottles and one small and will say that it has changed me from suffering the tortures of indigestion so I should never know I had suffered from it for about five years. The remedy has effected a cure of the trouble and I never have to think of it. It is one of the grandest remedies that was ever gotten up and has saved an awful lot of suffering for humanity.

For sale by all druggists. If your dealer does not carry Priest's Indigestion Powder, insist on him ordering it from the wholesaler or Priest Drug Co., Bangor, Me. Samples sent free. Mention paper in which you read this advertisement. For sale by Jacobs' Pharmacy Co.'s ten drug stores.—(adv.)

Specimens from organs of the bodies of each will be placed in evidence together with expert testimony tending to prove the presence in the specimens of the same poison as that alleged to have caused the death of Meyer, the state said.

5,000 Delegates Are Coming To Farm Bureau Convention

Plans were launched Friday afternoon at a meeting of the advisory board of the Georgia Farm Bureau federation for the entertainment and reception of the American Farm Bureau federation, which will hold its third annual convention in Atlanta from November 21 to 23, and at which approximately five thousand delegates from every state in the union and three foreign countries are expected.

The committee, which will work in Atlanta for the next two weeks on the business and entertainment program, as appointed by the advisory board Friday, is composed of R. A. Kelley, of Tennille, Ga., chairman, who is president of the state federation; James W. Morton, of Athens, Ga.; C. S. Marchan, of The Rock, Ga., and Mrs. M. E. Judd, of Dalton, Ga.

The present membership of the national organization is 2,000,000, and comprises forty-five states. By the time of the convention the other three states will have federations and organizations in two of the states began early this month. It is slated to be the largest convention in attendance and importance that has ever met in Atlanta. Others present at the advisory board meeting were J. W. Coleman, of Moultrie, Ga.; Mrs. J. R. Gable of Raymond; J. R. Barnhart, of Gainesville, and P. H. Saunders, of Atlanta, who was officially made secretary and treasurer of the state association Friday, due to the acceptance of the resignations of J. G. Oliver, of Athens, secretary, and T. W. Reed, of Athens, treasurer.

Baruch Is Coming.

Among the prominent people who will address the convention is Bernard M. Baruch, who was chairman of the war industries board during the war and afterwards economic advisor of the American peace commission.

Announcement was also made Friday by Mr. Saunders that the Farmers' Fruit Marketing committee will hold its first meeting in the Piedmont hotel here on Saturday, November 19, three days before the American Farm Bureau federation meets here.

The appointment of this committee of 21 by J. R. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, was authorized at a national fruit marketing conference in Chicago on April 5, when fruit producers from all sections of the United States met to discuss a national plan for the co-operative marketing of fruit.

The committee was instructed to undertake a study of the various problems affecting the fruit industry and to report, if feasible, on a plan whereby the fruit producers may establish and conduct co-operative fruit marketing associations. The creation of a fruit marketing department in co-ordination with the co-operative marketing department of the American Farm Bureau federation was also advised.

The Georgia Fruit exchange, with headquarters in this city, which handles the well-known Alberta peaches of this section of the country, had considerable influence in bringing the fruit growers' conference to Atlanta. The Florida Citrus Growers' association will be one of the representative organizations of the south to send a member. W. B. Hunter, president of the Georgia Fruit Growers' exchange, is the local man on the committee.

Nichol Will Preside.

James Nichol, president of the Michigan state farm bureau, will preside at the opening session. Other members of the committee are:

Samuel Adams, editor of the "American Fruit Grower," Chicago; W. B. Armstrong, president of the Washington Farm Bureau federation, Yakima, Wash.; Sheridan W. Baker, chairman horticultural department of the California Farm Bureau federation, Santa Rosa, Cal.; C. E. Durst, director of the fruit marketing department of the Illinois Agricultural association, Chicago; J. S. Edwards, East Highlands, Cal.; W. F. Farnsworth, Waterville, Ohio; M. B. Goff, Sturgeon Bay, Wis.; Professor Laurenz Greene, Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind.; Charles E. Hardy, Hillis, N. H.; Orlando Harrison, Berlin, Md.; W. B. Hunter, president Georgia Fruit Growers' exchanage, Atlanta; E. A. Ikenberry, Independence, Mo.; A. E. Johnson, president Mesa County Farm bureau, Grand Junction, Col.; Clement B. Lewis, Riverton, N. J.; C. I. Lewis, manager Oregon Growers' Co-operative association, Salem, Ore.; B. F. Moomaw, president Virginia Horticultural society, Cloverdale, Va.; N. R. Peet, manager Fruit Growers' Co-operative Packing association, Rochester, N. Y.; C. E. Stewart, general manager Florida Citrus exchange, Tampla, Fla.; William H. Stites, president Kentucky Horticultural society, Henderson, Ky.; Dr. O. E. Winberg, president Gulf Coast Citrus exchange and vice president Alabama Farm Bureau federation, Silverhill, Ala.

The meeting of the fruit men is only one of the least of conventions to be held in connection with the annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau federation in Atlanta. This convention of the largest farm organization in the world promises to be the largest meeting of farmers ever held in America.

WEST PEACHTREE STREET

Residential property usually sells to home-seekers on its merits as a home; rarely ever can you find well-located, residential property that brings in an income yield sufficient to make it attractive to an investment buyer. If you can find such a proposition, that is, residential property situated in the best part of the city and paying a big income in monthly rents, it is quite an achievement.

We now have in our hands for sale property on the east side of West Peachtree street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets, fronting 82 feet and running back over 200 feet to an alley being 100 feet wide in the rear. This property is improved, and the income at present is $520 per month, more than $6,000 per year. We can offer it at a price of $30,000, and we are going to sell it if we can obtain an offer approximating this price.

The improvements consist of two fine dwellings which have been remodeled and converted into very desirable apartments. A great many tenants prefer quarters of this kind, being preferable to regular apartments in some respects, in as much as they have the benefit of lawns, yard room and porches, and in general they are not so cramped, there being plenty of space between the two buildings. This property would be especially suitable for some one who could occupy a portion of it and give it some personal management, but can be rented out independently of the owner if so desired.
